Chairman's Message/Message du président du conseil

2014 is proving to be one of CAM's most challenging years. We've been very busy with quite a few initiatives that are changing the direction of our Association and our industry.

At the beginning of the year, we declared 2014 to be the Year of the Reputable Mover. So far, the Government response has been generally weak, I think because the problem of the rogue mover crosses various transportation, consumer protection and justice jurisdictions coast-to-coast. We will continue to lobby Government agencies well beyond 2014 to act in order to better protect consumers from these criminal enterprises posing as professional movers and tarnishing our industry's image.

The cohort that has taken an interest in CAM's work to combat the negative impact of rogue movers is the media. We've had a lot of coverage this year, with radio interviews, television appearances and news articles that have exposed the disreputable element and promoted CAM as a reliable resource for consumers. Thanks to CAM's directors for representing the Association and our industry so well!

The development of the Government of Canada's contract for the movement of household goods was a long, arduous and complex process. CAM was actively engaged in the dialogue during the last two years to help influence the development of the contract but, in the end, the Government elected to follow its own direction. Perhaps there will be learning points from this protracted experience as discussions gear up for the next contract.

CAM's Annual Conference is our most significant networking event and our conference committee has worked hard to put another quality program together for you. You'll find information about the conference, awards dinner and trade show in this issue. Our theme – The Age of More – addresses the pressures under which movers and industry suppliers operate and consumers make choices about their moving services. Don't miss this major opportunity to hear from professionals in our industry who have messages that will undoubtedly enhance your business practices.

Lastly, John Levi, after an 18-year career with CAM, the last 12 as our President, is retiring from CAM at the end of 2014. John's contribution to the continued success of CAM has been of consequence over these many years. His diligence, counsel and dedication to improving the well-being and the image of the Association, as well as the promotion of ethical business practices both within L'ANNÉE 2014 s'est avérée être l'une des années les plus exigeantes de l'ACD. Nous avons été très accaparés avec une multitude d'initiatives qui contribuent à modifier la direction de notre Association et de notre industrie.

En début d'année, nous avons proclamé l'année 2014 comme étant l'Année du déménageur reconnu. Jusqu'à présent, la réponse du gouvernement a été généralement mitigée, selon moi, parce que la problématique des déménageurs frauduleux implique diverses juridictions responsables du transport, de la protection du consommateur ainsi que de la justice, et ce d'un océan à l'autre. Nous poursuivrons nos démarches auprès des agences gouvernementales au-delà de 2014 dans le but de mieux protéger les consommateurs contre ces entreprises criminelles se présentant comme des déménageurs professionnels et qui ternissent l'image de notre industrie.

Le secteur des médias est le groupe s'étant le plus intéressé aux efforts de l'ACD afin de combattre l'impact négatif des déménageurs frauduleux. Cette année, nous avons bénéficié d'une bonne couverture grâce à des interviews à la radio, des interventions télévisées et des articles de journaux qui ont permis d'exposer la problématique de ces éléments peu scrupuleux et de promouvoir l'ACD à titre de ressource de confiance pour les consommateurs. Merci aux directeurs de l'ACD pour avoir si bien représenté l'Association et notre industrie!

Le développement du contrat du gouvernement du Canada relatif au déménagement des biens ménagers fut un long processus, ardu et complexe. L'ACD a été activement impliqué dans le dialogue au cours des deux dernières années afin d'aider à influencer le développement du contrat, mais, en bout de ligne, le gouvernement a choisi de suivre sa propre direction. Peut-être pourrions-nous retirer des leçons de cette longue expérience lorsque les discussions futures se dérouleront pour le prochain contrat.

La Conférence annuelle de l'ACD est certes notre plus importante activité de réseautage et notre comité d'organisation de la conférence a beaucoup travaillé afin de mettre en place un autre programme de qualité, de pair avec vous. Vous trouverez de l'information au sujet de la conférence, du dîner de remise des prix et du salon commercial à l'intérieur de ce magazine. Notre thème – L'ère de la valorisation – s'intéressera aux diverses formes de pression auxquelles sont soumis les déménageurs et les fournisseurs de l'industrie dans leurs opérations et auxquelles sont soumis les consommateurs dans

President's Message/Message du président

THIS WILL BE my last message to you as CAM's President. I'll be retiring at the end of this year with feelings of both trepidation and excitement.

After 18 years with CAM, you'd think that I'd feel like I've done it all. But in fact, I feel like there's still so much left to do. The Association has come a long way since I became president 12 years ago. Of course, everything about the way we do business has changed as well, so the challenge has often been just to keep pace.

When I depart, there will be many projects that CAM will still be tackling. The Year of the Reputable Mover might be better termed as the Challenge of the Reputable Mover since CAM's efforts to rid the marketplace of the rogue moving businesses will be ongoing for a long time yet.

The social media tools that consumers and businesses are using to communicate their messages are expanding exponentially – and CAM will have to work to keep up with the changes. Members need speedy access to critical industry information and consumers need to be able to reach reputable movers easily and quickly.

Members will always be looking to CAM to help them secure their share of the moving marketplace. The Association can help by validating members, promoting ethical conduct, offering training, supporting branding – all of which will continue long after I've left.

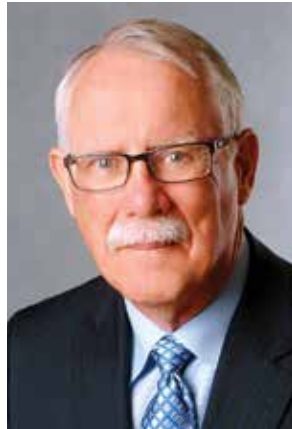

Paul Leader, CAM's new president will surely have his own ideas about what he'd like to accomplish. I ask you to help him set a new course that will build and strengthen the Association and serve you better – by contacting him and sharing your ideas with him. I know that he'll want to hear from you.

These concerns about what remains to be done aside, I also look forward to the future and what it will bring.

Thanks for your support over the years and I wish all of you every success. Please find me at the conference so I can say a personal farewell.

John Levi, President

LE PRÉSENT MESSAGE sera mon dernier à votre intention comme Président de l'ACD. Je me retirerai à la fin de cette année avec des sentiments à la fois de fébrilité et d'enthousiasme.

Après 18 années avec l'ACD, vous pourriez penser que je pourrais croire avoir tout accompli. Mais en fait, je me sens plutôt comme s'il restait beaucoup à accomplir. L'Association a beaucoup évolué depuis que j'en suis devenu le président il y a 12 ans.

Bien sûr, tout ce qui concerne notre façon de faire des affaires a bien évolué aussi, alors le défi a souvent été de maintenir le rythme.

Au moment de mon départ, il y aura plusieurs projets de l'ACD qui resteront à réaliser. L'Année du déménageur reconnu pourrait s'appeler plus justement le Défi du déménageur reconnu puisque les efforts de l'ACD d'éliminer du marché le commerce des déménageurs frauduleux se poursuivront encore longtemps.

Les outils de médias sociaux qu'utilisent les consommateurs et les entreprises afin de communiquer leurs messages se développent de façon exponentielle – et l'ACD devra travailler dans ce sens afin de se tenir à jour face à ces changements. Les membres ont besoin d'un accès rapide aux informations capitales de l'industrie et les consommateurs doivent pouvoir rejoindre des déménageurs reconnus facilement et rapidement.

Les membres s'attendent toujours à ce que l'ACD les aide à protéger leur part du marché du déménagement. L'Association peut aider en ce sens en validant les membres, en faisant la promotion d'un comportement éthique, en offrant de la formation et en supportant la reconnaissance de l'Association – toutes des orientations qui se poursuivront longtemps après mon départ.

Paul Leader, le nouveau président de l'ACD aura assurément ses propres idées quant à ce qu'il aimerait réaliser. Je vous prie de l'aider à définir une nouvelle orientation qui contribuera à développer et à renforcer l'Association et à vous servir mieux – en communiquant et en partageant vos idées avec lui. Je sais qu'il souhaite beaucoup recevoir de telles communications de votre part.

Outre ces préoccupations quant à ce qui reste à accomplir, je regarde aussi vers le futur et ce qu'il nous apportera.

Merci pour votre support au long de ces années et je vous souhaite tous beaucoup de succès. Lors de la Conférence annuelle, s'il vous plaît, venez me retrouver afin que je puisse vous faire un adieu personnel.

John Levi, Président

Moving in the Age of the Internet: Caution Required by Movers and Consumers

By Kim Biggar

In this CAM-declared “Year of the Reputable Mover,” good movers and consumers alike should be aware that it’s easier than ever for “rogue movers” to victimize buyers and for disgruntled customers to damage a company’s reputation. The Internet and social media have clearly enabled the growth of these trends. In his 36 years in the industry, Jim Carney, President & CEO of Rawlinson Moving & Storage Ltd. in Mississauga, has never seen as many disreputable movers as are now operating in Canada. For both movers and consumers, caution is certainly required.

■ Consumers: Beware of Rogue Movers

John Levi, CAM President, fields calls once or twice a week from the media seeking the association’s feedback after a moving crisis, usually goods held hostage for money or stolen. With no one else to help them, consumers turn to the media to share their stories, hoping perhaps to shame a resolution out of the perpetrators. To balance the story of bad guys and victims, journalists often reach out to CAM, providing an opportunity for the association to inform readers on the practices of the industry’s swindlers. That’s usually the only good outcome of these situations.

As Carney points out, “There is no governing body willing to take control” when consumers are defrauded by con-artist movers. The police generally won’t help, says Carney; they refer to these frauds as “civil matters,” not within their mandate. No government department, federally or provincially, has taken on the responsibility to help. According to Levi, governments are “running on empty, with so many mandates and agendas.” Consequently, he says, no one is monitoring the players in the industry, dealing with consumer complaints or charging the industry’s black sheep.

Ted LeLacheur, President & CEO of Western Moving & Storage in Edmonton, says the Internet has compounded the problem of rogue movers. “Some have really glossy websites that make them look reputable,” he says. And some people fall for the ruse, seeing a good-looking website as evidence of a good company. They’ll accept a quote from the company online or over the phone and, while they might get other quotes, they’ll go with the lowest price – almost certainly that of the fraudulent provider – without doing what LeLacheur refers to as homework: visiting the mover’s facility (or, at the very least, checking that the mover has a facility), and ensuring that they receive a written estimate and confirmation of the move date. “When you have everything you’ve worked for going into a truck,” he says, “you want to know that you can trust the mover.”

As part of its consumer-awareness effort, says Levi, CAM emphasizes that people “have to temper their expectations with reason, knowing that they have to pay for what they get.” He points out that there are no barriers to entry in the moving industry; anyone can claim to be a mover with an ad and a cell phone. Carney tells of a group discovered by the CBC to have seven different company names associated with it. The CBC was able to show where the phone number on the group’s white truck had been painted over and a new one applied. No company name appeared on the truck... Carney believes that, if there’s a hint of trouble for the group under one of its names, it simply switches to another and carries on business with impunity.

Consumers, in a nutshell: Get more than one quote. If one is much lower than the others, either avoid the mover or investigate it well. Be sure to check on the facilities and reputation of whatever mover you choose and get a quote in writing. Finally, ask for evidence of workers’ compensation coverage. (A rogue mover without coverage just might sue you if he gets injured in your home.)

■ Movers: Be Vigilant in Handling Complaints and Keep an Eye on Social Media

Just as consumers need to apply careful attention in choosing a mover, movers should take care in dealing with customer complaints, whether or not they’re legitimate. With the rampancy of social-media use, complaints can be shared at an unprecedented speed and with reputation-damaging effectiveness.

"Deal with problems head on, one on one," recommends LeLacheur, in order to avoid having dissatisfied customers airing their complaints in public. Carney agrees. Any customer annoyed with his company's service is allowed to vent to him as he or she sees fit, after which Carney promises to investigate and respond within 24 hours. Dealing with issues expeditiously is important, he says, to keep them from escalating.

Both Carney and LeLacheur monitor the Internet for mentions of their respective companies to ensure that they're positioned to immediately address any claims made against them. As Levi points out, a complaint made publicly on the Internet might easily be bogus, an attempt to discredit a competitor or to land a quick settlement. But whether they're for real or not, they cannot be ignored. LeLacheur favours responding publicly, in the same forum in which a complaint is made. If the complaint were truly made by a customer, Carney would contact the person and work to resolve the problem, then ask that the complaint be withdrawn. Either way, these movers attend promptly to complaints to preserve their good reputations online.

In today's media-rich environment, both reputable moving companies and consumers face challenges. Consumers need to look past shiny websites and online ads to make certain they contract with real movers with a history of quality service. Movers need to protect themselves from complaints gone viral and the potential of being lumped in with the industry's bad players. Where no one is authorized to deal with rogues, people have to be alert and look after themselves. ■

Déménager à l'ère de l'Internet : la prudence est de mise pour les déménageurs et les consommateurs

Par Kim Biggar

EN CETTE ANNÉE DÉCLARÉE «Année du déménageur reconnu», aussi bien les bons déménageurs que les consommateurs devraient être conscients qu'il est plus facile que jamais pour des «déménageurs frauduleux» de s'en prendre aux acheteurs potentiels, et pour des clients mécontents de ternir la réputation d'une compagnie. L'Internet et les médias sociaux ont clairement contribué à développer ces tendances. Au cours de ses 36 ans passées dans l'industrie, Jim Carney, président & chef de la direction de Rawlinson Moving & Storage Ltd. à Mississauga, n'a jamais noté autant de déménageurs peu scrupuleux opérant au Canada que maintenant. Pour les déménageurs et les consommateurs, la prudence est assurément requise.

■ Consommateurs : Méfiez-vous des déménageurs frauduleux

Une ou deux fois par semaine, John Levi, Président de l'ACD, répond à des appels provenant de médias qui demandent l'opinion de l'association relativement à une crise survenue à la suite d'un déménagement, soit pour des biens retenus pour des raisons monétaires ou volés. Comme personne d'autre ne peut les aider, les consommateurs se tournent vers les médias pour partager leurs histoires, espérant peut-être forcer les auteurs de ces crimes à les compenser. Afin de faire la part des choses entre les versions des délinquants et des victimes, les journalistes communiquent souvent avec l'ACD, offrant ainsi à l'association une opportunité d'informer les lecteurs à propos des pratiques utilisées par ces escrocs de l'industrie. C'est habituellement le seul élément positif de ces situations.

Comme le mentionne Carney, « Il n'y a pas d'organisme gouvernemental intéressé à prendre action » lorsque des consommateurs font face à des fraudes réalisées par des déménageurs escrocs. « Habituellement, la police ne sera d'aucune aide », indique Carney; ils identifient ces fraudes comme des «affaires civiles» qui ne sont pas intégrées dans le cadre de leur mandat. Aucun département gouvernemental, fédéral ou provincial, n'a pris la responsabilité de les aider. Selon Levi, les gouvernements « fonctionnent dans le vide, avec tellement de mandats et d'agendas. » « Par conséquent, » dit-il, « personne ne contrôle les joueurs de cette industrie, ne gère les plaintes des consommateurs ou ne poursuit les moutons noirs de l'industrie. »

Ted LeLacheur, Président & Chef de la direction de Western Moving & Storage à Edmonton, mentionne que l'Internet a amplifié le problème de ces déménageurs frauduleux. « Certains parmi eux ont de beaux sites Web qui contribuent à les rendre crédibles », mentionne-t-il. Et certaines personnes tomberont dans le piège, en considérant qu'un site Web attrayant est l'évidence d'une compagnie respectable. Elles vont accepter de recevoir une soumission en ligne de la compagnie ou au téléphone et, bien qu'elles puissent obtenir d'autres soumissions, elles vont choisir le prix le plus bas – presque assurément celui du fraudeur – sans effectuer ce que Ted LeLacheur suggère comme règle de base : visiter les installations du déménageur (ou, à tout le moins, vérifier si le déménageur a des installations), et s'assurer de recevoir une estimation ainsi qu'une confirmation de la date du déménagement par écrit. « Quand tout ce que vous possédez doit partir dans un camion, vous voulez vous assurer de faire confiance au déménageur », dit-il.

« Dans le cadre de son effort de sensibilisation auprès des consommateurs » dit-il, « l'ACD insiste pour que les gens aient des attentes raisonnables, sachant bien qu'ils doivent payer pour ce qu'ils souhaitent obtenir. » Il souligne qu'il n'existe pas de barrières pour entrer dans l'industrie du déménagement; n'importe qui peut se proclamer déménageur avec une publicité et un cellulaire. Carney fait référence à un groupe découvert par la CBC qui détenait sept noms de compagnie différents associés à celui-ci. La CBC a pu démontrer qu'un numéro de téléphone sur le camion sans identification du groupe avait été repeint et qu'un nouveau numéro y avait été appliqué. Aucun nom de compagnie n'apparaissait sur le camion... Carney croit qu'ainsi, si un problème éventuel survenait avec l'un des noms de ce groupe, il passait tout simplement à un autre et poursuivait ses affaires en toute impunité.

En résumé pour les consommateurs : Obtenez plus d'une soumission. Si l'une de celles-ci est beaucoup plus basse que les autres, ou bien vous devez éviter ce déménageur ou, à tout le moins, bien investiguer. Assurez-vous de vérifier les installations et la réputation de tout déménageur que vous choisissiez et obtenez une soumission par écrit. Finalement, demandez une preuve de la couverture de la CSST. (Un déménageur frauduleux sans couverture peut par la suite vous poursuivre s'il subit une blessure à votre domicile.)

■ Déménageurs : Soyez vigilants dans la gestion des plaintes et gardez un œil avisé sur les médias sociaux

Tout comme les consommateurs qui doivent porter attention au choix d'un déménageur, les déménageurs devraient être prudents dans la gestion de plaintes de consommateurs, qu'elles soient légitimes ou non. Avec la recrudescence de l'utilisation des médias sociaux, les plaintes peuvent être partagées à une vitesse vertigineuse pouvant ainsi générer efficacement des dommages à la réputation.

« Affrontez les problèmes rapidement, un à la fois », recommande LeLacheur, « afin d'éviter d'avoir des clients insatisfaits propageant leurs plaintes en public. » Carney est d'accord. Tout client ennuyé par le service reçu de sa compagnie à la possibilité de laisser aller sa colère à son endroit comme bon lui semble, après quoi Carney lui promet d'investiguer et de lui répondre dans un délai de 24 heures. « Traiter ces problématiques rapidement est plus qu'important afin de prévenir toute escalade », dit-il.

Transports Lacombe Completes Move of CHUM Research Centre

By Vincent Martineau

IN MAY 2014, Montreal-based CAM member Transports Lacombe completed the largest move in Quebec's history: the relocation of all laboratories for basic and clinical research, as well as the staff from eight sites, to the two towers of the new University of Montreal Hospital Centre Research Centre (CR-CHUM).

This mega-move – of specialized equipment and offices that occupy an area of over 33,000 square metres – took nearly a year of preparation and four months of work. Several weekly meetings with each of the participants were required to set up the logistics of the move.

To ensure a seamless transition for the client, nothing was left to chance: The moving teams received special training for the relocation of a health-care facility and on equipment developed to facilitate the transport of fragile, non-standard items.

Transports Lacombe planned a step-by-step relocation of the research centre, dividing the project into smaller phases with a rigorous methodology. In the end, it was as if the company made 38 small moves over several days.

■ Ensuring the Continuation of Operations

It's critical in the health-research sector that operations not be discontinued, especially those using biological assets or freezers; that makes for special requirements during a move. Research that might have been ongoing for many years is at risk. The golden rule is: Do not rush.

In the case of CR-CHUM, 1,500 employees, made up of 85 teams of researchers, were to be moved. Most of these teams work with numerous pieces of specialized scientific equipment.

Whether or not there are patients, moving the entirety of a hospital requires mobilizing all stakeholders and a great deal of coordination to maintain operations from start to finish.

This mega-move took nearly a year of preparation and four months of work.

■ Quebec Moves its Hospitals

Over the last ten years, the Quebec health system has undergone many relocations. This reorganization has culminated in the construction of two new hospitals: the McGill University Hospital Centre (MUHC) and the University of Montreal Hospital Centre (CHUM), both planned to begin operations in 2015 and 2016.

Since they represent major logistical challenges for all of the partners involved, these historic moves have led many Quebec companies to develop special expertise in the health sector.

Carriers and movers have shown great ingenuity in manufacturing custom equipment.

■ History of Transports Lacombe

After leaving the University of Montreal in 1972 with a degree in chemistry, Raymond Lacombe, founder of Transports Lacombe, bought a used vehicle in order to help move building materials for his new cottage.

Friends and acquaintances began asking him to move all sorts of items and equipment. Without other work, Mr. Lacombe occupied his continued on page 20

Transports Lacombe termine le déménagement du Centre de recherche du CHUM

Par Vincent Martineau

AU MOIS DE MAI 2014, Transports Lacombe, une entreprise membre de l'ACD établie à Montréal, a complété le plus gros déménagement de l'histoire du Québec : la relocalisation de tous les laboratoires de recherche fondamentale et clinique, ainsi que le personnel provenant de 8 sites dans les deux tours du nouveau du Centre de Recherche du CHUM (CR-CHUM).

Ce méga déménagement – d'équipements spécialisés et de bureaux occupant une superficie de 33 000 mètres carrés – aura nécessité près d'un an de préparation et 4 mois de travail. Plusieurs réunions hebdomadaires avec chacun des intervenants ont été nécessaires pour mettre en place la logistique d'un déménagement de cette ampleur.

Afin de s'assurer d'une transition transparente pour le client, rien n'a été laissé au hasard : les équipes ont reçu de la formation spécifique au déménagement d'un établissement de santé et des équipements ont été développés pour faciliter le transport de matériel fragile et hors norme.

Transports Lacombe a considéré la relocalisation du centre de recherche, étape par étape, en décortiquant le projet en petites phases et avec une méthodologie très rigoureuse. Au final, c'est comme si l'entreprise avait réalisé 38 déménagements de plusieurs jours.

■ S'assurer d'une continuité dans les opérations

Dans le secteur de la santé, il est primordial que les opérations ne soient interrompues, en particulier celles qui utilisent des actifs biologiques ou des congélateurs ; ceci implique des exigences spécifiques en vue d'un déménagement. Les recherches peuvent se dérouler en continu sur plusieurs années, ce qui rend tout déplacement risqué. La règle d'or est : éviter la précipitation.

Dans le cas du CR-CHUM, 1 500 employés, dont 85 équipes de recherche fondamentale et clinique ont été déplacées. Cela inclut pour la plupart de nombreux équipements scientifiques spécialisés.

Qu'il y ait des patients ou non, un déménagement de l'envergure d'un hôpital demande une mobilisation de tous les intervenants et une très grande capacité de coordination, car il faut maintenir l'activité au départ et à l'arrivée.

Ce méga déménagement aura
nécessité près d'un an de préparation et 4 mois de travail.

■ Le Québec déménage ses hôpitaux

Depuis une dizaine d'années, le système de santé québécois vit de nombreux mouvements en matière de relocalisation. Cette réorganisation culmine avec la construction de deux nouveaux hôpitaux, le Centre universitaire de santé McGill (CUSM) et le Centre hospitalier de l'Université de Montréal (CHUM) dont les mises en service sont prévues en 2015 et 2016.

Puisqu'ils représentent des défis logistiques majeurs pour l'ensemble des partenaires impliqués, ces déménagements historiques ont amené Transports Lacombe à développer une expertise particulière dans le secteur de la santé. Les transporteurs et déménageurs ont fait preuve de beaucoup d'ingéniosité en fabriquant des équipements sur mesure.

■ Historique de l'entreprise

Après avoir quitté l'université de Montréal en 1972 où il étudiait en Chimie, M Raymond Lacombe, fondateur de Transports Lacombe, achète un véhicule d'occasion dans le but de l'aider à transporter des matériaux de construction pour son nouveau chalet.

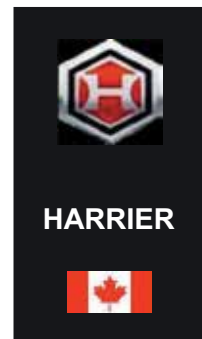

Des gens de son entourage commencent à lui demander de transporter toute sorte d'items et d'équipement. Sans travail, M. Lacombe occupe son temps dans ces petits déménagements jusqu'à faire l'acquisition d'un deuxième camion quelques mois plus tard.

En 1973, après quelques mois et plusieurs démarches, M. Lacombe fait l'acquisition d'une petite entreprise de déménagement « La coop de déménagement du 1<sup>er</sup> mai » basée dans la région de Montréal. Deux ans plus tard, l'entreprise loue l'étage d'un petit entrepôt. C'est le

SmartDriver in the City

By Harry Rudolfs

Training program for urban fleets cuts costs, reduces emissions.

CITY FLEETS looking to save money on fuel bills need to get the drivers on side. Studies prepared for Natural Resources Canada have shown that commercial drivers using best practices can achieve immediate fuel savings of at least 10% – and some can improve their performance by over 35%!

Over the last few years, the FleetSmart division of NRC has been developing training sessions for everyone from school bus drivers to long haul truckers. But the recently introduced SmartDriver in the City program should be of particular interest to urban fleets operating light and medium equipment within a 100 km radius of their home base.

Available free from NRC (www.fleetsmart.nrcan.gc.ca) the SmartDriver kit comes with a teacher's manual and a CD ROM containing a PowerPoint presentation and a short video. The program itself, consists of 13 training modules that can be delivered separately in 10-minute sessions, or be combined with a company's existing safety program.

The package also comes with posters supporting the material and certificates that can be awarded to participants upon completion of the course. A section of the manual dealing with adult learners could be very useful to instructors who are unsure of how to deliver effective presentations. Space is left at the end of each session for “tailgate talks,” as well as suggestions and strategies to get drivers involved in the discussions.

Besides saving money on the fleet’s fuel bill, and less emissions escaping into the atmosphere, the techniques outlined in SmartDriver will enhance road safety. The training modules are fully compatible with defensive driving courses. In most cases, the program can be seamlessly blended with DD courses already being offered.

SmartDriver will also save you money on repairs and wear on equipment. Brakes and tires are among the components that will need less service and replacement. According to Bryan Payne, fleet safety supervisor for the City of Edmonton, his Goodyear representative has noticed less tire wear since the implementation of their fuel efficiency seminars. “We can see up to 15% savings on tires and tire wear,” the rep told him.

And SmartDriver strategies mean less stress for the drivers. Lifestyle and safety issues are addressed in one section, and the driving techniques proselytized in the course material are designed to make city driving easier for operators. Maintaining a four-second following distance allows drivers to stay with the flow of traffic while avoiding unnecessary acceleration and braking.

Participants also develop a sense of mission and camaraderie. Overall, fleet and safety managers report that drivers enjoy being challenged to save fuel, and they like the idea that they are doing their part for a cleaner environment. Fuel efficient driving is nothing new, but SmartDriver in the City puts the best practices together in one package. Key among the driving tips is avoiding jackrabbit starts which can use 50% more fuel than gradual acceleration. Drivers are also asked to plan their route and make accommodations for factors like bad weather.

Some of the modules are specifically designed for light- or medium-duty vehicles, while others are applicable to any size truck. Discussions cover automatic and manual transmissions, progressive shifting, and the importance of keeping the vehicle in the highest possible gear without lugging.

Idling engines gets special consideration. Most fleet managers will tell you that idling is the major waste of fuel. SmartDriver exposes the myth of long engine warm up times and recommends idling for no more than 30 seconds, even in cold temperatures (except in traffic, of course).

“We tell our drivers to start driving slowly as soon as the air pressure builds up,” says Payne. “The smaller gas vehicles are ready to go as soon as there’s oil pressure. There’s no reason to warm up an engine 8 to 10 minutes.”

Why SmartDriver in the City will help your business

SmartDriver in the City training material can help you reduce costs, protect equipment, and retain drivers. Each of the recommended techniques has already been tried and tested by a fleet like yours. Consider the following benefits:

1. Lower fuel bills

Research has shown that skilled drivers can be 35% more fuel-efficient than their counterparts - and that can translate to your bottom line.

2. Control wasteful idling costs

If an idling vehicle wastes four litres of fuel per day, related engine damage and shortened oil drain intervals will add to those costs.

3. Reduce collisions

A smart driver is a safer driver.

4. Lower maintenance costs

Drivers learn the value of inspecting and maintaining fluids, tires, brakes, and filters.

5. Avoid fines

SmartDriver in the City discourages the speeding, aggressive driving habits, and excessive idling that can lead to traffic tickets.

6. Enhance your corporate image

By encouraging fuel-efficient driving techniques, you will play a key role in reducing the smog that coats our cities, greenhouse gases that could lead to climate change, and particulate matter that has been linked to respiratory disease.

7. Keep your employees healthy

Smart drivers learn the importance of a proper diet, seat adjustments, and sleeping habits that will keep them vigilant behind the wheel.

8. Retain employees

Smart drivers will appreciate training that enhances their skills.

9. Enhance existing training efforts — for free!

SmartDriver in the City training materials, known as SmartTalks, can be easily incorporated into existing training manuals.

10. Promote trip planning

SmartDriver in the City promotes the need to stick with established route plans, and teaches drivers how missing a single turn could add 3 km to a delivery.

SmartDriver in the City is available free of charge from Natural Resources Canada. Go to www.fteetsmart.nrcan.gc.ca for more information.

Payne looks after 5,500 city drivers in Edmonton who drive all classes of vehicles, from dump trucks to cars and pickup trucks. He's recently challenged all his drivers to save a liter of fuel a day. As well, all municipal drivers are required to take a four hour in-house "Fuel Sense" seminar, aimed at increasing driver efficiency.

"I tell my drivers, 'Global warming aside, guys, do you think idling is good for anything? It's not good for the environment, your kids or your family. And the wasted fuel costs. Remember, you're taxpayers, too.'" Payne also thinks that the newly acquired driving skills will carry over into the employees' private lives and communities.

Some larger fleets have been paying attention to idling and speeding for quite some time. Ray Krizman is regional fleet manager for HBC Logistics and looks after 110 trucks in Toronto and remote locations. HBC uses Shaw Tracking's satellite tracking to keep an eye on its 200 tractors, and Citrix software to monitor idling time and speeding violations.

"Idling is big," says Krizman, "and we extract that information once a week." He explains that his driver trainer has been working on shifting, idling and speeding for the past five years. HBC drivers are expected to meet operating and efficiency benchmarks. The scores are then ranked and posted in the drivers room. At the spring driver meeting, the top six performers with the best consistent scores were presented with cash vouchers.

"It has been my experience that drivers really take to this sort of thing, even if it's just a star beside their name" says Krizman. "They feel like they're part of a team."

Mechanical issues like correct tire pressure, clogged filters and low fluid levels are dealt with in another of the learning modules. Under-inflated tires can increase fuel consumption by 4%, and Chris Hill, central fleet manager for the City of Hamilton, Ont., has now included tire pressure checks as part of the pre-trip inspections. "Especially the inside duals, they never get checked."

Efficiency programs at least mitigate some of the sting from the price of gas and diesel fuel which has remained stubbornly high in the past few months, handcuffing many municipalities and fleets. "If we all could reduce our fuel consumption by 10%, it would help a lot," adds Hill, whose fleet of 1,500 vehicles includes 200 buses.

Besides the cost benefits, the SmartDriver program dovetails with the City of Hamilton's "Green Fleet" initiative which, like those of other municipalities, is intended to reduce green house gases from city vehicles, and sets some real targets.

time with these small moves; a few months later, he was able to purchase a second truck.

In 1973, after several months and several attempts, Mr. Lacombe acquired a small moving company, The May 1st Moving Coop, based in the Montreal area. Two years later, the company leased space in a warehouse, launching its residential and commercial storage business.

The growing company became a member of North American Van Lines in 1985. It began to get major contracts in commercial moving from around the Montreal area.

The same year, Transports Lacombe relocated the offices of Le Journal de Montréal without interrupting releases, a world first for a task of this magnitude.

After several years of strong growth, in 1987, Transports Lacombe obtained the contract to move the "Ramses II and His Time" exhibit, which later earned the company major contracts with leading museums in Quebec, as well as recognized expertise in the field.

In 2005, the company was sold to Luc Lafontaine, principal shareholder, and three employees, Nathalie Chapados, Richard Côté and Pierre Roch.

Recognized for its participation in some of Quebec's largest transportation and relocation projects, including moving the Grande Bibliothèque du Québec, the Caisse de dépôt et de placement du Québec, and l'Hôpital Honoré-Mercier, Transports Lacombe has in recent years developed a particular expertise in the relocations of hospitals and laboratories.

Hill has managed to incorporate the SmartDriver modules into a 90-minute seminar. "This winter we've made it a priority to reach every driver over a six week period," he says. "FleetSmart comprises the majority of the program, but we also look at things important to us like load security. This is something everybody understands. We don't need to go to the subatomic level."

SmartDriver in the City is a compelling way to upgrade drivers' skills, especially for small to medium fleets that don't have a lot of resources to spend on training. So much depends on the driver in this industry and this course has a lot of good ideas and tools. In the long term, programs like SmartDriver may change the world for the better. In the short term, it will save you some money.

It has been indeed a privilege to have worked with John, both as Chairman and as a member of the board of directors, over these past years and I am sure that I can speak on behalf of the current board and the membership in thanking John for his invaluable service to CAM and wishing him all of the best in his retirement.

Of course, with John's departure and after careful consideration by CAM's Succession Committee, we have a new President joining CAM. I am sure that everyone has seen our announcements that Paul Leader, formerly Senior Vice President of Atlas Van Lines (Canada) Ltd., will be joining CAM as our new President and CEO. Paul brings a wealth of experience in our industry to the role of CAM's President and we all wish Paul well in his new endeavour.

I would also like to thank the Succession Committee, which included Cam Carswell, Tom Filgiano and Ted LeLacheur, with the able collaboration of Perry Thorne and David Ogilvy, in assisting with selection process. So much of the work of the Association is done through its committees and by its volunteers. We do not take the opportunity frequently enough to recognize these people and their work. Two of our staunchest supporters and the sources of many of our initiatives are retiring this year – Carol Davis and John Rausch. Thank you, Carol and John, for all your input and great ideas, and thank you to all our volunteers for your efforts and input.

En 1985, l'entreprise en plein essor devient membre de la « North American Van Lines ». La société commence à obtenir des contrats majeurs en déménagement commercial dans la région de Montréal.

La même année, Transports Lacombe déménage les installations du « Le Journal de Montréal » sans interrompre les parutions, ce qui constitue une première mondiale pour un quotidien de cette envergure.

Après quelques années de forte croissance, en 1987, Transports Lacombe obtient le contrat de transport de l'exposition « Ramsès II et son temps », qui par la suite lui vaudra des contrats majeurs avec les principaux musées du Québec et une expertise reconnue dans le domaine.

En 2005, l'entreprise est vendue à Luc Lafontaine, actionnaire principal, et à 3 employés, Nathalie Chapados, Richard Côté et Pierre Roch.

MOVE FOR HUNGER

Conducteur averti en ville

Par Harry Rudolfs

Programme de formation pour les parcs automobiles urbains permettant de réduire les coûts et être plus éconergétique.

LES PARCS AUTOMOBILES URBAINS cherchant à économiser sur les coûts de carburant doivent s'assurer que les chauffeurs s'impliquent. Des études préparées pour Ressources naturelles Canada ont indiqué que les conducteurs commerciaux faisant usage de bonnes pratiques peuvent obtenir des économies immédiates de carburant de 10% – et certains peuvent améliorer leur performance de plus de 35%!

Au cours des dernières années, le secteur ÉcoFlotte de RNC a développé des sessions de formation destinées autant aux conducteurs d'autobus scolaire qu'aux camionneurs longue distance. Mais le programme Conducteur averti en ville, récemment introduit, devrait avoir un intérêt particulier pour les parcs automobiles urbains exploitant des équipements de poids moyen à léger dans un rayon de 100 km.

Disponible gratuitement de RNC (www.fleetsmart.nrcan.gc.ca), la trousse Conducteur averti contient un manuel de l'enseignant et un CD-ROM comportant une présentation PowerPoint et une brève vidéo. Le programme lui-même consiste en 13 modules de formation pouvant être communiqués séparément dans des sessions de 10 minutes ou combinés dans un programme de sécurité d'une compagnie.

Le contenu comporte également des affiches en lien avec le matériel et des certificats pouvant être remis aux participants une fois le cours complété. Une section du manuel s'appliquant à des élèves adultes pourrait s'avérer très utile pour les instructeurs qui sont incertains quant à la façon de donner des présentations efficaces. Du temps est laissé, à la fin de chaque session, pour des «échanges informels», ainsi que des suggestions et des stratégies permettant d'impliquer les conducteurs dans les discussions.

En plus d'économiser sur les factures de carburant du parc et de réduire les émissions de gaz à effet de serre, les techniques contenues dans Conducteur averti contribueront à améliorer la sécurité routière. Les modules de formation sont totalement compatibles avec les cours de conduite préventive. Dans la majorité des cas, le programme peut être jumelé sans problème avec des cours de conduite préventive déjà offerts.

Conducteur averti vous permettra également d'économiser sur les réparations et l'usure de l'équipement. Les freins et les pneus figurent parmi les composantes qui requerront moins de service et de remplacement. Selon Bryan Payne, superviseur à la sécurité du parc de la ville d'Edmonton, son représentant Goodyear a remarqué moins d'usure des pneus depuis la mise en place de leurs séminaires sur les économies de carburant. « Nous pouvons remarquer jusqu'à 15% d'économies sur les achats et l'usure de pneus », lui a mentionné le représentant.

Et les stratégies de Conducteur averti impliquent moins de stress pour les conducteurs. Des problématiques relatives au style de vie et à la sécurité sont traitées dans une section, et des techniques de conduite adaptées dans le matériel du cours sont conçues pour faciliter la conduite urbaine aux conducteurs. Maintenir une distance de quatre secondes entre les véhicules permet aux conducteurs de bien suivre la circulation tout en évitant les accélérations et les freinages inutiles.

Les participants développent également un sentiment de mission et de camaraderie. De façon générale, les directeurs de parc et de sécurité indiquent que les conducteurs apprécient d'être mis au défi pour épargner du carburant et aiment l'idée de contribuer à un meilleur environnement. Le mode de conduite économe n'est rien de nouveau, mais Conducteur averti en ville rassemble les meilleures pratiques en un seul programme. Un élément clé dans les conseils de conduite est d'éviter les départs précipités qui peuvent consommer un excès de 50% de carburant comparativement à un départ graduel. Les conducteurs sont également requis de planifier leur route et de s'ajuster à des facteurs externes comme la mauvaise température.

Certains modules sont spécifiquement conçus pour les véhicules de poids léger ou moyen, alors que d'autres s'appliquent à tout format de véhicule. Les discussions portent sur les transmissions automatiques et manuelles, les changements de vitesse progressifs et l'importance de toujours maintenir le véhicule au rapport de vitesse le plus élevé tout en évitant de surcharger le moteur.

La marche du moteur au ralenti reçoit une attention particulière. La plupart des directeurs de parc vous diront que la marche au ralenti représente l'une des plus importantes pertes de carburant. Conducteur averti décrit le mythe des longues périodes de réchauffement du moteur et recommande la marche au ralenti d'un moteur pour un maximum de 30 secondes, même lors de températures froides (sauf dans la circulation, bien entendu).

« Nous disons à nos conducteurs de commencer à conduire lentement dès que la pression d'air monte », mentionne Payne. « Les plus petits véhicules à essence sont prêts à démarrer dès qu'il y a une pression d'huile.

INTERNET de la page 13

Carney et LeLacheur surveillent tous deux l'Internet relativement à des mentions de leurs compagnies respectives afin de s'assurer qu'elles sont bien positionnées pour faire face immédiatement à toutes plaintes pouvant être soulevées à leur endroit. Comme le souligne John Levi, une plainte rendue publique sur Internet peut aisément être de la foutaise, une tentative de discréditer un compétiteur ou être faite dans le but d'obtenir un règlement rapide. Mais, qu'elles soient fondées ou non, elles ne peuvent être ignorées. LeLacheur préfère répondre publiquement, dans le même forum où est faite la plainte. Si la plainte a vraiment été faite par un client, Carney communiquerait avec cette personne et s'efforceraient de résoudre le problème pour ensuite exiger le retrait de la plainte. D'une façon ou de l'autre, ces déménageurs répondent promptement aux plaintes afin de préserver leur bonne réputation en ligne.

De nos jours, dans cet environnement laissant beaucoup de place aux médias, les compagnies de déménagement réputées et les consommateurs font tous deux face à des défis. Les consommateurs doivent voir au-delà des sites Web attrayants et des annonces en ligne afin de s'assurer qu'ils font affaires avec de vrais déménageurs possédant un historique de service de qualité. Les déménageurs doivent se protéger contre les plaintes qui deviennent virales et contre la possibilité d'être associés à ces mauvais joueurs de l'industrie. Puisque qu'aucune organisation n'est autorisée à contrôler ces fraudeurs, les gens doivent être alertes et se protéger eux-mêmes. ■

En quoi Conducteur averti en ville vous aidera dans vos affaires

Le matériel de formation de Conducteur averti en ville peut vous aider à réduire les coûts, protéger vos équipements et retenir vos conducteurs. Chacune des techniques recommandées a déjà été essayée et testée par un parc automobile tel que le vôtre. Prenez en considération les avantages suivants :

1. Diminue les factures de carburant

Les recherches indiquent que les conducteurs qualifiés peuvent être 35% plus efficace dans l'économie du carburant – ce qui peut se répercuter sur vos finances.

2. Contrôle les coûts liés au gaspillage généré par la marche au ralenti d'un moteur

Si un véhicule marchant au ralenti gaspille quatre litres d'essence par jour, les dommages au moteur qui y sont associés et les intervalles de vidange d'huile rapprochés ajouteront à ces coûts.

3. Réduit les collisions

Un conducteur averti est un conducteur prudent.

4. Diminue les coûts d'entretien

Les conducteurs apprennent la valeur liée à l'inspection et à l'entretien des fluides, pneus, freins et filtres.

5. Évite les contraventions

Conducteur averti en ville décourage la vitesse, les habitudes de conduite agressives et la marche au ralenti d'un moteur de façon excessive pouvant mener à des contraventions.

6. Rehausse votre image corporative

En encourageant les techniques de conduite visant l'économie d'essence, vous jouerez un rôle clé dans la réduction du smog qui recouvre nos villes, des émissions de gaz à effet de serre liées aux changements climatiques et des particules associées aux maladies respiratoires.

7. Garde vos employés en santé

Un Conducteur averti apprend l'importance d'une diète appropriée, des ajustements de siège et des habitudes de sommeil qui maintiendront les conducteurs vigilants derrière le volant.

8. Retient vos employés

Un Conducteur averti appréciera une formation qui contribue à améliorer ses habiletés.

9. Améliore les efforts de formation en place — gratuitement!

Les volets de discussion de la formation Conducteur averti en ville, mieux connus sous le nom Regard Averti peuvent facilement être incorporés dans les manuels de formation en place.

10. Promouvoit la planification de voyage

Conducteur averti en ville fait la promotion de la nécessité de se conformer à des plans de route établis et enseigne aux conducteurs comment le fait de rater un seul virage pourrait ajouter 3 km sur une livraison.

Conducteur averti en ville est disponible gratuitement de Ressources Naturelles Canada. Rendez-vous au www.ftetsmart.nrcan.gc.ca pour plus d'information.

Il n'y a aucune raison de réchauffer un moteur pendant 8 à 10 minutes. »

Payne s'occupe de 5 500 conducteurs urbains à Edmonton qui conduisent tous types de véhicule : camions à benne, automobiles ou fourgonnettes. Récemment, il a mis les conducteurs au défi d'épargner un litre d'essence par jour. Également, tous les chauffeurs municipaux sont requis de suivre un séminaire interne d'une durée de quatre heures intitulé «Fuel Sense», visant à accroître l'efficacité des conducteurs.

« Je dis à mes conducteurs : «Réchauffement planétaire mis à part, les gars, croyez-vous que la marche au ralenti sert à quoi que ce soit d'autre? Ce n'est pas bon pour l'environnement, vos enfants ou votre famille. Et le gaspillage d'essence a un coût. N'oubliez pas que vous êtes aussi des contribuables.» » Payne croit également que les habiletés de conduite nouvellement acquises se répercuteront dans la vie privée des employés et dans les communautés.

Quelques parcs automobiles plus importants ont porté une attention particulière à la marche au ralenti et à l'accélération depuis un certain temps. Ray Krizman est directeur de parc régional pour HBC Logistics et s'occupe de 110 camions à Toronto ainsi que dans des endroits éloignés. HBC utilise la solution de repérage par satellite Shaw afin de suivre ses 200 remorques et une application Citrix pour contrôler les violations des règles de temps de marche au ralenti et d'accélération.

« La marche au ralenti est importante », mentionne Krizman, « et nous extrayons ces informations sur une base hebdomadaire. » Il explique que son instructeur de conduite a travaillé sur les changements de vitesse, la marche au ralenti et l'accélération au cours des cinq dernières années. On s'attend à ce que les conducteurs de HBC respectent les critères opérationnels et d'efficacité. Les résultats sont par la suite classés et affichés dans la salle réservée aux conducteurs. Lors de la rencontre printanière annuelle des conducteurs, les six employés les plus performants ayant les meilleurs résultats ont été présentés et ont reçu des bons de caisse.

« Mon expérience indique que les conducteurs prennent goût à ces choses, même s'il ne s'agit que d'une étoile juxtaposée à leur nom. », indique Krizman. « Ils ont ainsi l'impression qu'ils font partie de l'équipe. »

Des problèmes mécaniques comme une pression de pneu adéquate, des filtres obstrués et de bas niveaux de fluides sont traités dans un autre module d'apprentissage. Des pneus insuffisamment gonflés peuvent augmenter la consommation d'essence de 4%, et Chris Hill, directeur du parc central pour la cité d'Hamilton en Ontario, inclut dorénavant les contrôles de pression des pneus dans les vérifications précédant un voyage. « Tout spécialement les roues jumelées intérieures car elles ne sont jamais vérifiées. »

Ces programmes d'efficacité contribuent à tout le moins à atténuer une partie du prix de l'essence et du diesel qui est demeuré obstinément élevé au cours des derniers mois, menottant ainsi plusieurs municipalités et parcs automobiles. « Si nous pouvions tous réduire notre consommation d'essence de 10%, ça aiderait beaucoup », ajoute Hill dont le parc de 1 500 véhicules inclut 200 autobus.

Outre les épargnes de coûts, le programme Conducteur averti s'intègre bien avec le programme «Green Fleet» de la cité d'Hamilton qui, tout comme ceux d'autres municipalités, a pour objectif de réduire les émissions de gaz à effet de serre provenant des véhicules municipaux et définit certaines cibles réalistes.

Hill a réussi à incorporer les modules Conducteur averti dans un séminaire d'une durée de 90 minutes.

« Cet hiver, nous avons établi comme priorité de rejoindre chaque conducteur à l'intérieur d'une période de six semaines », indique-t-il. « ÉcoFlotte comporte la majorité du programme, mais nous considérons également des éléments importants pour nous comme l'arrimage des charges. C'est quelque chose que tout le monde comprend bien. Nous n'avons pas besoin d'aller dans les moindres détails. »

Conducteur averti en ville est une méthode efficace d'accroître les habiletés des conducteurs, spécialement ceux de petits ou moyens parcs automobiles qui ne bénéficient pas de beaucoup de ressources pour dépenser sur la formation. Tant de choses dépendent du conducteur dans cette industrie et ce cours contient beaucoup de bonnes idées et d'outils. À leurs choix relatifs à leurs services de déménagement. Ne ratez pas cette grande opportunité d'entendre des professionnels de notre industrie qui véhiculeront des messages qui vous permettront assurément d'améliorer vos pratiques commerciales.

En dernier lieu, John Levi, après une carrière de 18 années avec l'ACD, dont les 12 dernières à titre de président, se retirera de l'ACD à la fin de l'année 2014. La contribution de John au succès continu de l'ACD a eu énormément d'impact au cours de toutes ces années. Sa diligence, ses conseils et son implication afin d'améliorer la santé et l'image de l'Association, aussi bien que la promotion des pratiques commerciales conformes à l'éthique, autant à l'intérieur qu'à l'extérieur de notre organisation, se sont avérés incommensurables et nous manqueront beaucoup. Au cours de cette période, ce fut en fait un privilège d'avoir travaillé avec John, à la fois comme Président du conseil et comme membre du bureau de direction, et je suis assuré de pouvoir parler au nom du conseil d'administration actuel et des membres afin de remercier John pour ses précieux services rendus à l'ACD et lui souhaiter nos meilleurs vœux pour sa retraite.

Évidemment, avec le départ de John et après une évaluation attentive du Comité pour la relève de l'ACD, un nouveau président se joint maintenant à l'ACD. Je suis assuré que tous ont pris connaissance de nos communications qui long terme, des programmes comme Conducteur averti peuvent contribuer à changer le monde pour le mieux. À brève échéance, il vous permettra d'économiser de l'argent.

Harry Rudolfs est un rédacteur sur la route avec la gamme de magazines de Transportation Media et bénéficie de près de vingt ans d'expérience dans l'écriture d'articles au sujet de l'industrie du transport et de la logistique. Il est également un conducteur professionnel.

annonçaient que Paul Leader, anciennement Vice-président exécutif d'Atlas Van Lines (Canada) Ltd., joindra l'ACD à titre de nouveau Président et directeur général. Dans ce rôle de Président de l'ACD, Paul apporte avec lui un vaste bagage d'expérience dans notre industrie et nous lui souhaitons la meilleure des chances dans son nouveau défi.

J'aimerais également remercier le Comité pour la relève, incluant Cam Carswell, Tom Filgiano et Ted LeLacheur, avec l'aide fort appréciée de Perry Thorne et David Ogilvy, qui ont tous participé à ce processus de sélection. Une grande part du travail de l'Association passe par ses comités et ses bénévoles. Nous ne saisissons pas assez souvent l'occasion de reconnaître la contribution de ces personnes ainsi que leur travail. Deux de nos supporters les plus ardents et à l'origine de beaucoup de nos initiatives se retirent cette année – Carol Davis et John Rausch. Merci, Carol et John, pour toutes vos contributions et vos excellentes idées, et merci à tous nos bénévoles pour tous vos efforts et votre contribution.

Venez tous à la Conférence et profitez-en pour féliciter toutes ces personnes face à leurs nouvelles orientations.

Canadian Association of Movers

Canada's Trade Association for the Moving Industry

2014 ANNUAL CONFERENCE

THE AGE OF MORE

Sunday evening, October 19 to Tuesday noon, October 21

Sheraton Toronto Airport Hotel
801 Dixon Road,
Toronto, Ontario, Canada

CAM ASD
Canadian Association of Movers
Canada's Trade Association for the Moving Industry

THE AGE OF MORE

Dear fellow moving professionals:

It's my pleasure to invite you to attend the Canadian Association of Movers' 2014 Annual Conference titled THE AGE OF MORE.

We see all stakeholders in the moving process – consumers, sales staff, movers and rogues – looking for more and dealing with more. They want a larger share of the process or to realize greater savings. At the same time, there are more pressures influencing their decisions – more choices, more scrutiny and more risk.

Our presenters this year will look at the moving industry from several aspects. Among other topics, you'll hear about:

- The Better Business Bureau's perspective on the consumer
- An economic outlook for small businesses
- The future of the relocation industry
- Establishing a credible brand for marketing your company
- Understanding the importance of effective claims handling in the moving industry

And, of course, the conference will be supported by leading members of the supplier community who will showcase the latest in moving products and services.

This is CAM's 19th annual conference since its reestablishment in 1996. Over the years, we have learned about the value that movers want from their conferences. A CAM conference is more than a social event. It's all about providing practical business management information for our members. If you take home one useful concept that increases revenue, reduces costs or improves management techniques, or a product or service that streamlines operations, then the conference has paid for itself.

We've put together a program for you with ideas that could give you an edge in the marketplace. For CAM, it's always been about how we can help CAM members to do business better and smarter.

Join us for what promises to be a valuable information and networking event.

Regards,

Doug Kellough
Chairman, CAM's Annual Conference Committee

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

MONDAY

The Business of Protecting Consumers

Mary E. Power, President & CEO,
Council of Better Business Bureaus

The consumer has an increasing need to know how to access reputable moving-service-providers. As there are more and more rogues attempting to develop business in the moving industry, responsible agencies must assist consumers with educational material, information on reputation and direction to reputable providers. Our conference's opening keynote speaker, Mary Power, will address some of the challenges both consumers and service-providers face in sending and receiving the necessary messages. She will discuss the roles that the Better Business Bureaus and trade associations play in helping stakeholders in this process.

Emerging Trends Shaping the World of Relocation

Stephen Cryne, President & CEO,
Canadian Employee Relocation Council

The world of relocation is undergoing profound and unprecedented change. From demographic shifts, to technology and government policy initiatives, the complexity of workforce mobility is on the rise. In this engaging presentation you will gain a deeper insight of:

- Domestic and international labour demographics, their impact on workforce mobility and the moving industry
- Effectively using incentives to motivate mobility, what works, what doesn't and why
- How Canada can develop a mobility model.

Competing in The Age of More

NEW

Lorella DePieri, Program Director for the Centre of Excellence in Sales Leadership at The Schulich School of Business - SEEC Schulich Executive Education Centre and President of Results by Design

Dispelling the myths of competing in The Age of More, Cultural Capital is your most powerful competitive advantage.

This keynote presentation examines the potential power of your brand when built on a purposeful foundation of culture and values that creates a message that prospective customers experience as your unique differentiator.

TUESDAY

Canada's Economy: Dealing with the Demographic Downshift

Ted Mallett, Vice President and Chief Economist, Canadian Federation of Independent Business

Opportunity or hazard? Canada's economy is turning down an unmapped road. The passage of the baby boom generation into retirement means the working age population has all but stopped growing. This will impact the structural make-up of the economy and the flow of spending among people and businesses.

PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Claims: A Moving Industry View

PANELISTS:

Jason Hounsell, Director, Customer Service/Claim Settlements, Atlas Van Lines (Canada) Ltd.

Dan Lawrence, Vice President Finance, United Van Lines (Canada) Ltd.

Carmen Stang, Director of Operations, SIRVA Canada LP

Gary Steele, Director, Facility Services, Veranova Facility Services

NEW

MODERATOR:

John Rausch, Vice President Canada, Allied Van Lines Canada

Consumers are demanding more from the moving industry while reducing the amount they are willing to pay for a move. An area in which consumers feel they can save is by reducing the amount they spend on value protection. And yet, they still expect the mover to be responsible for all damage or loss. At the very beginning of the process, the sales representative is not providing clear information on value protection and who is responsible for loss or damage. When claims occur, it becomes obvious that either consumers were not made aware of their entitlement or they feel they can pressure the mover into making a settlement to which they are not entitled. The panel will address consumer attitudes, fairness in settling claims, sales training, how the consumer judges the industry, costs to the industry, and a few possible solutions to this ongoing challenge.

Moving is Not a Commodity

PANELISTS:

Denis Frappier, Executive Vice President, AMJ Campbell Corporate

Don Kachur, President, Highland Moving & Storage Ltd.

Rick Taylor, Vice President, Taylor Moving & Storage Ltd.

MODERATOR:

Tom Finlay, Senior Vice President, AMJ Campbell Van Lines, Vancouver

As consumers become more cost conscious and rogues are increasingly offering moves at low prices, reputable movers are driven to lower prices, often at minimal contribution. Alternatively, the reputable mover can compete on quality and customer service. This panel will explore some of the strategies to sell moves based on the value of a company's brand. It will offer methods to define the product being sold and what makes your company better. These concepts are well known to every salesperson, but how do you deliver on them in reality? Our panel will discuss the movement from concept to execution.
