Chairman's Message/Message du président du conseil

I HAVE NOW COMPLETED

my first year as the chairman of the Canadian Association of Movers. CAM has a very broad mandate which could be summarized as furthering the interests of the owner-managed moving company. As chairman, I've been working closely with CAM's board of directors, committees and staff to further that mandate.

It has been a very busy year with many projects that affected not only the Association, but also individual movers within and outside of our Association.

As an Association, we have declared 2014 to be the Year of the Reputable Mover. It is an ambitious project in which we are trying to engage all stakeholders in the moving process – government agencies, media, consumer agencies, consumers, and movers (especially CAM members). So far, it has been met with varied responses ranging from “it's totally unnecessary” to “what a great idea!”

The objective of the project is being met. We have created a significant amount of awareness in the marketplace without incurring a great expense. We are seeing increased awareness at the provincial government level and some interest in opening a dialogue with us. What we are not seeing yet is a greater consumer awareness of the risk that they take when they entrust all their possessions to a rogue mover.

We had a very successful conference last fall in Vancouver and are looking forward to another in Toronto on October 19–21, 2014. It's titled The Age of More – a theme that reflects consumers' wish for better moves at lower prices, movers' desire for a greater market share and compensatory fees, and reputable movers looking for a higher profile in the marketplace. Our speaker list is starting to come together and we expect to have the usual high level of presenter that CAM is known for.

As always, I am using this message to remind you that the CAM is your Association and it only provides value if you participate – lobby government, attend events, provide professional service. And do let us know what you are looking for from your Association.

Thomas (Tom) S. Finlay, Chairman

ma première année à titre de président du conseil de l'Association Canadienne des Déménageurs. L'ACD détient un mandat très étendu qui pourrait se résumer principalement à la promotion des intérêts des entreprises à propriétaire unique. Dans le rôle de président du conseil, j'ai travaillé de près avec les directeurs du conseil d'administration de l'ACD, ses comités et son personnel administratif afin de faire progresser ce mandat.

Ce fut une année très chargée avec plusieurs projets ayant influé, non seulement sur l'Association, mais également sur les déménageurs indépendants, membres ou non de l'Association.

Comme association, nous avons déclaré 2014 comme étant l'Année du déménageur reconnu. C'est là un projet ambitieux dans lequel nous tentons d'impliquer tous les intervenants se retrouvant à l'intérieur du processus de déménagement – les agences gouvernementales, les médias, les agences de protection des consommateurs et les déménageurs (spécialement les membres de l'ACD). Jusqu'à ce jour, nous avons recueilli des commentaires variés avec des réponses du genre de « ce n'est vraiment pas important » en allant à « quelle excellente idée! »

L'objectif du projet a bien été rencontré. Nous avons généré un assez bon niveau de conscientisation dans l'industrie et ce, à un coût infime. Nous constatons une sensibilisation accrue au niveau du gouvernement provincial ainsi qu'une certaine démonstration d'intérêt dans l'ouverture d'un dialogue avec nous. Ce que nous ne constatons toujours pas, c'est une plus grande sensibilisation de la part des consommateurs quant aux risques qu'ils encourent lorsqu'ils remettent tous leurs biens dans les mains d'un déménageur sans scrupules.

Notre conférence de Vancouver a connu beaucoup de succès l'automne dernier et nous anticipons pour cette année une aussi bonne conférence qui se tiendra à Toronto du 19 au 21 octobre 2014. Son thème sera L'ère de la valorisation – un thème qui reflète le désir des consommateurs de bénéficier de meilleurs services de déménagement à meilleurs prix, le désir des déménageurs d'obtenir une meilleure part de marché ainsi que des frais compensatoires accrus, ainsi que le désir des déménageurs de bonne réputation de bénéficier d'une meilleure perception dans le marché du déménagement. Nous sommes à compléter notre liste de conférenciers et nous sommes confiants de pouvoir présenter le même niveau relevé de conférenciers qui a toujours fait la réputation de l'ACD.

President's Message/Message du président

AS YOU KNOW, I have decided to retire as president of the Canadian Association of Movers and will be leaving this position on December 31, 2014. I have been working for the Association since July 1996 when a group of movers led by Peter Naylor decided to reestablish CAM as the Association for Canada's moving and storage industry.

In the past 18 years, I have seen our Association steadily grow in numbers and in the professionalism of its members. Much of this is the effect of professionals associating with fellow professionals. It has been a period in which CAM has created some real value for its members.

We are now in the middle of the succession process in which we are trying to find a new president. Each candidate brings different strengths and skills to the position, and each would contribute in a different way to the ongoing success of the Association. It is the succession committee's unenviable task of making this important choice.

Another of the many tasks which we are currently working on is the optimization of our website in order for it to function on iPhones and smart phones. There have been major changes in the way in which we must communicate with consumers if we are to be successful. We are trying to navigate our way through the myriad of social media sites to find one or two that will effectively communicate our message to the marketplace.

CAM's staff has also been heavily occupied with initiatives that advance our Year of the Reputable Mover. We see this as being an ongoing effort extending well beyond 2014. There will always be rogues in the marketplace and there will always be consumers who use them. It is CAM's objective to reduce the numbers of both.

John Levi, President

COMME VOUS LE SAVEZ, j'ai décidé de me retirer du poste de président de l'Association Canadienne des Déménageurs et quitterai mes fonctions le 31 décembre 2014. J'ai œuvré pour l'Association depuis juillet 1996 alors qu'un groupe de déménageurs dirigés par Peter Naylor décidèrent de rétablir l'ACD à titre d'Association pour l'industrie du déménagement et de l'entreposage au Canada.

Au cours de 18 dernières années, j'ai constaté une croissance continue de notre Association, tant en nombre de membres qu'au niveau de leur professionnalisme.

Une large part est due au fait que des professionnels se soient associés avec des confrères tout aussi professionnels. Ce fut une période au cours de laquelle l'ACD a généré une valeur réelle pour tous ses membres.

Nous en sommes maintenant rendus au milieu du processus de succession par lequel nous essayons de sélectionner un nouveau président. Chacun des candidats possède des forces et des habiletés diversifiées pour cette position, et chacun d'entre eux pourrait contribuer différemment au succès continu de l'Association. C'est la tâche peu enviable du comité pour la relève de faire cet important choix.

Une autre des multiples tâches sur lesquelles nous travaillons actuellement vise l'optimisation de notre site Web afin d'en assurer le bon fonctionnement sur les iPhones et autres téléphones intelligents. Plusieurs changements majeurs sont survenus dans les moyens par lesquels nous devons communiquer avec les consommateurs si nous voulons connaître du succès. Nous essayons de départager cette myriade de sites de médias sociaux afin de pouvoir en sélectionner un ou deux qui seraient aptes à communiquer efficacement notre message à l'ensemble du marché.

Le personnel de l'ACD s'est également occupé activement d'initiatives en faveur de notre thème de l'Année du déménageur reconnu. Nous estimons qu'il s'agit là d'un effort continu qui devrait se poursuivre bien au-delà de l'année 2014. Il existera toujours des "déménageurs" sans scrupules dans le marché et il y aura toujours des consommateurs qui les utiliseront. C'est l'objectif de l'ACD d'en réduire le nombre dans les deux cas.

Highland Moving & Storage: Moving with Pride

By Kim Biggar

Don Kachur

Out on their own on jobs, movers represent the company; it's important for management to know that a sense of pride will guide their actions and decisions.

WITH ITS WELL-KNOWN worker shortages, Alberta can be a tough place to keep good employees. Most of us are familiar with the stories of people landing a job within days of arriving in the province, thanks to a deficiency of workers. While that's great for individuals, it's not so good for employers.

Successful employers in this market actively deal with recruitment and retention. At 75 years old, Highland Moving & Storage is certainly successful. It has taken several critical steps over the years to develop a reputation as not only a reliable mover, but also an excellent employer. Its philosophy of "Moving with Pride" is at the core of this achievement.

Moving with Pride defines Highland's culture. Don Kachur, the company's president and owner, knows that moving is a difficult job, requiring strength, agility and customer-service skills. Movers can be proud, he says, of doing a good job, and Highland emphasizes that for two reasons. Out on their own on jobs, movers represent the company; it's important for management to know that a sense of pride will guide their actions and decisions. Second, focusing on pride keeps Highland's movers engaged and committed to a company they see as caring, says Kachur; it is, in effect, a retention strategy.

It's not just the moving staff, though, that are involved in Highland's Moving with Pride program; all employees receive regular feedback on their performance. A scoring system presents an objective view of the quality of their work. According to Kachur, it provides an incentive to "live up to standards," and a good score is seen as a reward, recognition of work done well.

In other efforts to recruit and retain good employees, Highland has hired a full-time HR person – a position not frequently available in moving companies – and supports an active social committee that keeps employees involved with each other during and outside of work. A picnic in Red Deer each spring, for example, draws staff from both the Calgary and Edmonton offices. These undertakings highlight what Kachur refers to as a "critical element" now for his company: hiring and retaining staff.

■ Company History

Highland Moving & Storage completes more than 3,000 moves a year, and has about 200 employees in its two locations. Started in 1938, the company was originally known as Jim's Express Transfer and Baggage Hauling Ltd. Don Kachur's father, Peter Kachur, bought a used truck and, as the story goes, didn't have paint to change the company name on its doors.

"Jim's Express" stuck until 1975, when Don and his older brother, Norman, moved the business from the garage at their parents' home, where it had been housed since its founding, into a newly built warehouse and went after business with Pacific Western Airlines. During a meeting, PWA's Brian Ascough "asked if we would feel safe flying to Calgary on 'Pete's Airline'," says Don. “We got the point.”

Sitting around the kitchen table at home, the family bandied about ideas for a new name. Don’s nephew showed up with a new hockey stick from Highland Sports Store and, despite their lack of Scottish heritage, the group liked “Highland.” Along with the name, they chose a bagpiper as a logo, and launched Highland Moving & Storage. They got the work with PWA.

In 1994, Don bought his brother’s share of the company, giving him full ownership.

Four years later, Kachur was invited by Jim Thompson, head of Crown Relocations, one of the world’s largest international moving companies, to join him in Hong Kong to learn the basics of international moving. Upon his return to Edmonton, Kachur founded Starline Overseas Moving as a division of Highland. Although Starline’s first job went awry – the movers had loaded a container when the police came to charge their customer with fraud, and the move didn’t take place – the business now accounts for about 20 percent of Highland’s revenue.

■ Focus on Technology

Don Kachur likes finding easier ways to get work done. He has applied this interest to come up with industry-leading technologies that have helped his company and his customers alike.

Relovision is Highland’s customer-relationship management (CRM) software. According to Kachur, it was a first in the moving business, developed before the phrase CRM had even been coined. Using the software, all staff and the company’s moving partners are connected to a central database that provides up-to-date information to all parties. For the first three or four years that Highland used Relovision, until other companies adopted similar technologies, it gave the company a competitive advantage in its market.

About five years ago, Highland introduced MovesOnline.com, an icon-based program that allows individual users to enter inventories of their belongings and receive move quotations. Kachur had visualized the program for some time, but had to wait for technology capabilities to catch up with his idea. Having created their own inventories, customers know – and have proof of – exactly what a quote covers, and that quotes from different movers provide for accurate comparisons based on the same information.

Highland makes MovesOnline available to its own customers and prospective customers, and licenses other, non-competing moving companies to provide the service through their websites.

In 2011, MovesOnline won Highland a Government of Alberta Consumer Champion Award, because it enables consumers to save time (eliminating the need to meet with multiple salespeople in their homes to obtain moving bids) and helps them avoid scams that rogue movers achieve by claiming to have been given incomplete inventory information. “Web-savvy customers love this app. It’s easy to use... [and] can be done 24/7,” points out Kachur. (The good news is that online inventories also save movers money, by reducing the need for surveyors, cutting fuel costs and virtually eliminating “estimate-vs.-actual” disputes.)

Since 2010, the BBB of Central and Northern Alberta has partnered with MovesOnline.com to provide consumers with an easy way to receive up to four estimates from BBB-accredited movers within its service area. This is an excellent way to help consumers find and use reputable movers; moving companies are, after all, routinely on the top-ten lists of complaints for BBBs throughout Canada.

“Moving with Pride” is clearly something that Highland Moving is enabling beyond just its own operations; its efforts, particularly in the development of technologies, are benefitting other reliable movers in Canada and around the world. ■

Highland Moving & Storage: Déménager avec fierté

Par Kim Biggar

Don Kachur

Seuls sur le terrain pour accomplir ces tâches, les déménageurs représentent la compagnie; c'est donc important pour la compagnie de savoir qu'un sentiment de fierté guidera leurs actions et leurs décisions.

EN RAISON DE SA PÉNURIE de travailleurs bien établie, l'Alberta n'est pas un endroit propice pour conserver de bons employés. Nous connaissons tous des histoires à propos de personnes ayant décroché un emploi à peine quelques jours après leur arrivée dans la province en raison d'une telle pénurie. Bien que ce soit excellent pour les individus, ce n'est pas aussi bon pour les employeurs.

Les employeurs connaissant du succès dans ce marché gèrent activement le recrutement et la rétention. En affaires depuis 75 ans, Highland Moving & Storage connaît assurément du succès. Au cours de ces années, elle est passée par plusieurs étapes importantes afin de développer à la fois une réputation de déménageur fiable et celle d'un employeur de choix. Sa philosophie axée sur "Moving with Pride" (Déménager avec fierté) est au centre de cet accomplissement.

"Moving with Pride" définit bien la culture d'Highland. Don Kachur, président et propriétaire de l'entreprise, sait bien qu'un déménagement est un travail difficile, exigeant de la force, de l'agilité et des compétences dans le service à la clientèle. Les déménageurs peuvent être fiers, dit-il, d'accomplir un bon travail et Highland met de l'emphase sur cet aspect pour deux raisons. Seuls sur le terrain pour accomplir ces tâches, les déménageurs représentent la compagnie; c'est donc important pour la compagnie de savoir qu'un sentiment de fierté guidera leurs actions et leurs décisions. En second lieu, le fait d'insister sur cette fierté contribue à garder les déménageurs engagés et dédiés envers une compagnie qu'ils considèrent comme attentionnée, dit M. Kachur; c'est là, en effet, une stratégie de rétention.

Ce n'est cependant pas seulement le personnel affecté au déménagement qui est impliqué dans le programme "Moving with Pride" d'Highland; tous les employés reçoivent régulièrement des rétroactions sur leur performance au travail. Un système de pointage indique une vision objective de la qualité de leur travail. Selon M. Kachur, ce système les incite à "respecter ces critères" et un bon pointage est perçu comme une récompense, une reconnaissance du travail bien fait.

Dans ses autres efforts pour recruter et conserver de bons employés, Highland a embauché une personne attirée aux RH à plein temps – une position peu souvent offerte dans les compagnies de déménagement – et soutient un comité social des plus actifs qui permet aux employés d'échanger avec les autres au travail et à l'extérieur du travail. À titre d'exemple, un pique-nique à Red Deer à chaque printemps permet de sortir le personnel des deux bureaux de Calgary et Edmonton. Ces initiatives démontrent bien ce à quoi réfère M. Kachur lorsqu'il parle "d'un élément important" : l'embauche et la rétention du personnel.

■ Historique de l'entreprise

Highland Moving & Storage réalise plus de 3 000 déménagements par année et possède environ 200 employés dans ses deux emplacements. Démarré en 1938, l'entreprise s'appelait initialement Jim's Express Transfer and Baggage Hauling Ltd. Le père de Don, Peter Kachur, a acheté un camion usagé et, selon l'histoire, n'avait pas repeint celui-ci afin de changer le nom de la compagnie apparaissant sur ses portes.

"Jim's Express" fut conservé jusqu'en 1975, lorsque Don et son frère plus âgé, Norman, déménagèrent l'entreprise du garage du domicile de leurs parents, où elle était localisée depuis sa fondation, dans un entrepôt nouvellement construit et cherchèrent à développer des affaires avec Pacific Western Airlines. Au cours d'une rencontre, Brian Ascough de PWA nous demanda "si nous serions à l'aise de voler vers Calgary sur la ligne aérienne d'un dénommé Pete", mentionne Don. "Nous avons alors bien compris le message."

Tous assis autour de la table de cuisine à la maison, les membres

de la famille avancèrent des idées pour un nouveau nom. Le neveu de Don se présenta alors avec un nouveau bâton de hockey provenant du magasin Highland Sports Store et, malgré qu'ils n'aient aucun héritage écossais, les membres du groupe adoraient le nom "Highland". Pour accompagner ce nom, ils ont choisi comme logo un joueur de cornemuse et c'est alors qu'ils ont lancé Highland Moving & Storage. Par la suite, ils décrochèrent le contrat avec PWA.

En 1994, Don fit l'acquisition des parts de son frère dans l'entreprise, ce qui lui conférait la propriété entière de celle-ci.

Quatre ans plus tard, Kachur était invité par Jim Thompson, responsable de Crown Relocations, l'une de des plus importantes compagnies de déménagement internationales, à l'accompagner à Hong Kong afin d'étudier les notions fondamentales du déménagement international. De retour à Edmonton, Kachur créait une division d'Highland, Starline Overseas Moving. Bien que le premier travail de Starline ne fût pas couronné de succès – les déménageurs avaient terminé de charger un conteneur lorsque les policiers arrivèrent afin d'inculper leur client de fraude, et le déménagement ne fut jamais complété – l'entreprise représente aujourd'hui environ 20 % des revenus d'Highland.

■ Mettre l'accent sur la technologie

Don Kachur aime bien trouver des façons plus simples d'accomplir le travail. Il a bien appliqué ce principe afin de développer des technologies de pointe dans l'industrie qui ont contribué à aider à la fois sa compagnie et ses clients.

Le système de gestion de la relation client (GRC) utilisé par Highland se nomme Relovision. Selon Kachur, il s'agissait d'une première dans l'industrie du déménagement, développé bien avant que le terme GRC (ou CRM) ne soit créé. À l'aide de ce programme, tout le personnel et les partenaires d'affaires de l'entreprise sont reliés à une base de données centrale qui communique de l'information à jour à tous les intervenants. Pendant les trois ou quatre années pendant lesquelles Highland a utilisé Relovision, jusqu'à ce que d'autres entreprises adoptent des technologies similaires, l'entreprise a bénéficié d'un avantage compétitif dans son marché.

Il y a environ cinq ans, Highland a introduit MovesOnline.com, un programme piloté par icônes qui permet aux utilisateurs individuels d'entrer les inventaires de leurs biens et de recevoir des soumissions de déménagement. Kachur avait visualisé ce programme depuis un certain temps déjà, mais il a dû attendre que les technologies nécessaires soient disponibles avant de concrétiser son idée. Ayant eux-mêmes inscrits leurs propres inventaires, les clients savent exactement – et en ont la preuve écrite – ce que couvre la soumission reçue et sont ainsi assurés que les soumissions reçues de différents déménageurs font l'objet de comparaisons valables se basant sur la même information.

Highland met MovesOnline à la disposition de ses propres clients et de clients potentiels et offre une licence à d'autres entreprises, non concurrentes, afin que celles-ci puissent offrir ce service par l'intermédiaire de leurs sites Web.

En 2011, avec MovesOnline, Highland a obtenu un "Government of Alberta Consumer Champion Award" parce que cette application permettait aux consommateurs de sauver du temps (en éliminant le besoin de rencontrer plusieurs vendeurs à domicile afin d'obtenir des soumissions de déménagement) et les aidait à éviter les escroqueries que les déménageurs frauduleux utilisent en mentionnant qu'ils avaient reçu des informations incomplètes sur l'inventaire. "Les consommateurs avisés naviguant sur le Web adorent cette application. Elle est si facile à utiliser... [et] peut être utilisée 24 heures sur 24 et 7 jours sur 7", mentionne Kachur. (La bonne nouvelle, c'est aussi que les inventaires en ligne permettent également aux déménageurs d'économiser; en réduisant les besoins d'inspecteurs, en diminuant les coûts d'essence et en éliminant pratiquement les litiges relatifs à des données approximatives.)

Depuis 2010, le BBB du centre et du nord de l'Alberta a conclu un partenariat avec MoveOnline.com afin d'offrir aux consommateurs une façon simple de recevoir jusqu'à quatre soumissions de déménageurs accrédités par le BBB et se trouvant dans leur secteur de service. Il s'agit d'une excellente alternative pour aider les consommateurs à trouver et utiliser des déménageurs reconnus; car les compagnies de déménagement figurent en fait très souvent dans les listes de plaintes adressées au BBB partout au Canada.

"Moving with Pride" est vraiment une affirmation qu'Highland Moving met de l'avant bien au-delà de ses propres activités commerciales; ses efforts, particulièrement dans le développement des technologies, profitent à d'autres déménageurs fiables, au Canada et partout dans le monde. ■

Move For Hunger

By Alexandra Marcus

Although Move For Hunger operates on an international scale, all the food stays local and goes directly to a family in need right in the mover's community.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE in your community can be easier than you think. That's what movers from all over North America are finding out by joining up with Move For Hunger, a non-profit organization that works with moving companies to feed the hungry.

As you know, when people move they tend to throw out a good deal of "stuff." Unfortunately, this "stuff" is often perfectly good food that could go to a family in need, rather than be thrown away. That's where Move For Hunger comes in. Move For Hunger works with moving companies and relocation professionals to urge their customers to donate any non-perishable food items not going on the move to the local food bank.

Although Move For Hunger operates on an international scale, all the food stays local and goes directly to a family in need right in the mover's community. Moving companies actually have a unique opportunity to give back to their community without having to make major changes to the way they operate. It has never been more important for businesses of all shapes and sizes to use their resources for the greater good.

"My family's owned a moving company for over 90 years and, in that time, we've seen so much go to waste," said Adam Lowy, Executive Director of Move For Hunger. After a visit to the local food bank, Adam was shocked to find how many people in his relatively well-off community relied on the food bank. "With the economy in recession and so many people struggling, we could no longer sit by and watch perfectly good food end up in the garbage. So we started asking customers if they'd like to donate their food items, instead of taking them on the move."

Tanner Van Lines – Food Drive

Gary Seaward – TR Westcan, Calgary

After just a couple of weeks, they had over 300 lbs. of food from their customers, and the idea for Move For Hunger was born.

“I couldn’t help thinking that if this one moving company could collect so much with so little extra effort, what could the thousands of moving companies across the country accomplish,” said Lowy.

Move For Hunger movers actively participate in the fight against hunger by urging their customers to donate, and spreading awareness about the issue of hunger. Each mover includes a customized program letter to its clients that educates them about local hunger issues and shows how they can make a difference simply by donating the non-perishable food items in their kitchen.

Since being founded in 2009, Move For Hunger has attracted more than 630 moving companies from across 47 states and Canada to join the fight against hunger. Together they have delivered over 2.7 million lbs. to food banks across the continent, enough to provide for over 2.2 million meals for those in need. With thousands of moving companies across the United States and Canada, the moving and relocation industry has a real opportunity to make a big difference in the lives of the less-fortunate across North America.

In addition to membership in an international network of relocation professionals, Move For Hunger movers receive a number of unique benefits with enrollment. Each mover is featured on the “Find A Mover” tool on www.MoveForHunger.org, gets support from Move For Hunger’s PR and events team to hold food drives and other community events, and much more.

En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger)

Par Alexandra Marcus

Bien qu'En mouvement contre la faim opère à une échelle internationale, toute la nourriture recueillie demeure dans la localité et va directement à une famille dans le besoin dans la communauté du déménageur.

CONTRIBUER À FAIRE UNE DIFFÉRENCE dans votre communauté peut s'avérer être plus facile que vous ne le croyez. C'est ce que découvrent des déménageurs d'un peu partout en Amérique du Nord en se joignant à En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger), un organisme sans but lucratif qui travaille avec des compagnies de déménagement afin de nourrir ceux et celles qui ont faim.

Comme vous le savez, lorsque les gens déménagent, ils sont enclins à jeter beaucoup de choses. Malheureusement, ces choses sont souvent de la bonne nourriture qui pourrait servir à une famille dans le besoin plutôt que d'être jetée. C'est à ce moment qu'entre en jeu En mouvement contre la faim. En mouvement contre la faim travaille de près avec des compagnies de déménagement et des professionnels du déménagement afin d'inciter leurs clients à remettre à une banque alimentaire locale toutes denrées alimentaires non périssables qu'ils n'emportent pas avec eux.

Bien qu'En mouvement contre la faim opère à une échelle internationale, toute la nourriture recueillie demeure dans la localité et va directement à une famille dans le besoin dans la communauté du déménageur. Les compagnies de déménagement ont ainsi une opportunité unique de redonner à leur communauté sans devoir apporter de changements majeurs à leur mode d'opération habituel. Il n'a jamais été si important pour les entreprises de toutes dimensions d'utiliser leurs ressources pour l'intérêt commun.

« Ma famille a été propriétaire d'une compagnie de déménagement pendant plus de 90 ans et, à ce moment-là, nous avons constaté tellement de gaspillage, » mentionne Adam Lowy, directeur exécutif de En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger). Après une visite à la banque alimentaire locale, Adam a été consterné de voir combien de personnes dans sa communauté relativement aisée dépendaient de la banque alimentaire. « Avec l'économie en récession et tant de personnes dans le besoin, nous ne pouvions rester sans rien faire et continuer de voir de la bonne nourriture prendre le chemin des poubelles. C'est alors que nous avons commencé à demander à nos clients s'ils aimeraient donner leurs denrées alimentaires plutôt que de les apporter dans leur déménagement. »

Après quelques semaines seulement, ils avaient recueilli plus de 300 lb de denrées chez leurs clients et l'idée d'En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger) était née.

« Je ne pouvais m'empêcher de penser que si une seule compagnie de déménagement pouvait recueillir autant de denrées avec si peu d'efforts, qu'en serait-il si des milliers de compagnies de déménagement partout au pays se joignaient au mouvement, » mentionne Lowy.

Les déménageurs affiliés à En mouvement contre la faim participent activement à la lutte contre la faim en encourageant leurs clients à donner ainsi qu'en sensibilisant les gens au problème de la faim. Chaque déménageur envoie à ses clients une lettre personnalisée décrivant le programme qui les informe au sujet des problèmes reliés à la faim au niveau local et qui leur indique de quelle façon ils peuvent faire une différence simplement en donnant les denrées non périssables qui se trouvent dans leurs cuisines.

Depuis sa fondation en 2009, plus de 630 entreprises de déménagement dans plus de 47 états ainsi qu'au Canada ont déjà joint le projet de lutte contre la faim d'En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger). Ensemble, ils ont livré plus de

2 700 000 lb de denrées aux banques alimentaires partout au pays, assez pour fournir plus de 2,2 millions de repas aux gens dans le besoin. En raison des milliers de compagnies de déménagement aux États-Unis et au Canada qui la composent, l'industrie du déménagement a une belle possibilité de faire une différence significative dans les vies de plusieurs infortunés partout en Amérique du Nord.

En plus de participer à un réseau international de professionnels du déménagement, les déménageurs d'En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger) reçoivent plusieurs bénéfices exclusifs à leur adhésion. Chaque déménageur est affiché sur l'outil de recherche d'En mouvement contre la faim (Move for Hunger) au www.MoveForHunger.org, reçoit du support de l'équipe de relations publiques et d'événements spéciaux d'En mouvement contre la faim pour organiser des collectes de nourriture et d'autres activités communautaires ainsi que plusieurs autres privilèges.

Visitez le site MoveForHunger.org/join-our-fleet ou communiquez avec Alexandra Marcus à Alex@moveforhunger.org afin d'impliquer votre entreprise dans la lutte contre la faim et de constater qu'il est facile pour vous de faire partie de la solution.

Brytor International Moving Celebrates Its 50th Anniversary

Quality is the foundation stone of everything that we do... this is the only way we can provide a consistent level of service to our customers.

BRYTOR INTERNATIONAL MOVING is proudly celebrating its 50th anniversary.

The company has grown from its original Hamilton office – which moved to Mississauga in 1985, adding offices in Montreal in 1992, and in Ottawa and Vancouver in early 2000. In 2002, the Mississauga head office moved to a custom-built office and warehouse complex. In 2008, Stephan Charbonnier joined Brytor as Vice President for Montreal, developing the operation and moving it to larger premises in 2010.

How has the company stayed in business for 50 years? Brian Jones, Vice President, says it's "largely thanks to having the right staff and being able to develop and retain employees over a long period." Many of Brytor's employees have been with the company for nearly half of its 50 years. At all levels, Brytor has maintained a stable group of employees, a fact that he says, "has greatly contributed to our reputation of providing consistent, quality services. As a specialist international moving company, the accumulated experience and knowledge of our people is invaluable to our customers."

Operating since the 1960s, Brytor has experienced several economic growth-and-contraction cycles, and has adjusted as its market has changed. Early in its history, Brytor dealt largely with customers in the private migrant market, moving individuals and families into Canada as immigration to the country grew. During the 1980s, while continuing to support the private migrant market, the company expanded and developed its corporate base. The corporate landscape has changed considerably over the last 10 to 15 years, with the arrival of relocation companies in Canada. For many large companies, being able to have a single outsourced service provider for the management of expatriate employees makes sense. Brytor has had to evolve to provide international moving services to relocation companies.

With the large volumes of migrant business, the company also built up groupage services to its key markets in the U.K. and Australia. Today Brytor also provides a trade groupage service to its customer base of Canadian moving companies, with services to Australia and New Zealand in addition to services throughout Europe run through its regular groupage service via the U.K.

“We are still focused,” says Jones, “on the operational aspects of international moving, which enables us to provide a high-quality service to our customers. However, we have become more process-driven in order to comply with being a service provider for the large relocation companies.” No stranger to compliance, Brytor was one of the first companies in Canada to become FIDI FAIM accredited. (Jones serves as the current president of the Canadian FIDI Association.) “Quality is the foundation stone of everything that we do...this is the only way we can provide a consistent level of service to our customers. There have been many changes over the years, but at the end of the day we should keep foremost in our minds that we are only as good as the last move we have done!”

Going forward, President Michael Rathbone sees the company remaining a quality-dedicated international mover. “Getting to 50 years in any business is an achievement. In our business sector we have seen a number of companies come and go over the years. The steady growth of our company has been made possible by the right market conditions, and loyal customers and employees.”

A celebration is planned for the fall; management is not giving the details at this stage as they want to be sure that employees are pleasantly surprised when the time comes.

Here’s to a happy anniversary, Brytor! ■

Brytor International Moving célèbre son 50^{ième} anniversaire

La qualité est la pierre d'assise de tout ce que nous faisons...
c'est la seule façon de pouvoir
offrir un niveau de service continu à nos clients.

BRYTOR INTERNATIONAL MOVING célèbre avec fierté son 50^{ième} anniversaire.

L'entreprise est passée d'un seul bureau situé à Hamilton – ayant déménagé à Mississauga en 1985 – à l'ajout de bureaux additionnels à Montréal en 1992 et à Ottawa ainsi qu'à Vancouver au début des années 2000. En 2002, le siège social de Mississauga est déménagé dans un complexe adapté de bureaux et d'entrepôts. En 2008, Stephan Charbonnier s'est joint à Brytor à titre de vice-président du bureau de Montréal, contribuant ainsi à développer les opérations et à déménager dans des locaux plus grands en 2010.

Comment l'entreprise a-t-elle réussi à demeurer en affaires pendant 50 ans? Brian Jones, vice-président, mentionne que « c'est grandement dû au fait que nous avons le personnel adéquat et que nous avons réussi à développer et conserver nos employés sur une longue période de temps. » Plusieurs des employés de Brytor sont demeurés avec la compagnie pendant près de 25 ans. À tous les niveaux, Brytor a maintenu un groupe stable d'employés, une raison qui, dit-il, « a grandement contribué à notre réputation d'offrir constamment des services de qualité. Comme compagnie spécialisée dans le déménagement international, l'expérience et le savoir accumulés par nos employés représentent une valeur inestimable pour nos clients. »

En opération depuis les années 60, Brytor a connu plusieurs cycles de croissance et de contraction de son activité économique et a su s'ajuster aux changements de son marché. Très tôt dans son histoire, Brytor a fait affaire avec des clients provenant du secteur de l'immigration, en déménageant des individus et des familles au Canada au fur et à mesure que progressait l'immigration au pays. A Second Life for Trailers

By MaryBeth Tomes

It is critical that those in the moving and storage industry invest in resilient, premium trailers that can also enjoy a second life years later through factory reconditioning.

MOVING PERSONAL BELONGINGS from one place to another has been a reality for the human race since early history. In modern times, high-quality, durable vehicles have played a crucial role in the process of transporting these possessions. For this reason, it is critical that those in the moving and storage industry invest in resilient, premium trailers that can also enjoy a second life years later through factory reconditioning. Routine maintenance will allow a high-quality trailer to last approximately ten-to-twelve years. The trailer may then return to the factory for complete OEM reconditioning, which will give it a second life of another ten-to-twelve years. Of course, this reconditioning process increases the life span of the trailer, which also allows for greater revenue production for its owner. This is why moving companies buy the highest-quality product possible and spend additional time and money to maintain and recondition their vehicles.

What trailer features should a moving company consider? What style and quality fits their core function and provides the largest return on investment? If hauling household goods (HHG), a 53' drop-deck electronics van is the industry work horse. As the most popular trailer in the moving business, this model boasts a capacity of 4,210 cubic feet, six 52" double-opening side doors (four curb side and two road side), air ride suspension, logistic posts, a flat floor from drop to rear, belly boxes, and the ability to transport automobiles. A bit more cubic capacity is offered with a Maxi-Van using smaller tires. If the mover requires even greater cubic hauling capacity and deeper interiors, double-drop and triple-drop trailers are available.

Assuming the mover has settled on a trailer application and design, it is important to consider features offering the most longevity and possibility of a second-life through factory reconditioning. Features such as steel-reinforced rails, doors and drop; side-door interior flush locks made of anodized aluminum and stainless steel; door hinges of hard anodized aluminum; impact resistant corner casting; protected cast aluminum top rail; mini-LED marker lights and LED dome lights; hardwood/oak floors; heavy duty, double-slotted steel logistic posts, and vinyl finished interiors. Consultations with the trailer manufacturer will reveal even more available features.

Clearly, these trailer models are

Une seconde vie pour les remorques

Par MaryBeth Tomes

Il est essentiel pour ceux qui œuvrent dans l'industrie du déménagement et de l'entreposage d'investir dans des remorques résistantes et de qualité qui peuvent également bénéficier d'une seconde vie, après plusieurs années, suite à un reconditionnement en usine.

DÉMÉNAGER des biens personnels d'une place à l'autre a toujours été une réalité de la vie pour la race humaine depuis le début de son histoire. Dans les temps modernes, les véhicules robustes et de haute qualité ont joué un rôle crucial dans le transport de tels biens. Pour cette raison, il est essentiel pour ceux qui œuvrent dans l'industrie du déménagement et de l'entreposage d'investir dans des remorques résistantes et de qualité qui peuvent également bénéficier d'une seconde vie, après plusieurs années, suite à un reconditionnement en usine. Un entretien de routine permettra l'utilisation d'une remorque de haute qualité pendant environ dix à douze années. La remorque peut ensuite être retournée en usine pour faire l'objet d'un reconditionnement FEO (Fabricant d'équipement d'origine) qui lui donnera une seconde vie pour une autre période de 10 à douze ans. Bien sûr, ce processus de reconditionnement augmente la durée de vie de la remorque, ce qui procure également un plus grand revenu d'opération à son propriétaire. C'est pourquoi les compagnies de déménagement achètent un produit de la plus haute qualité possible et investissent temps et argent supplémentaires pour entretenir et reconditionner leurs véhicules.

Quelles caractéristiques d'une remorque devraient être considérées par une compagnie de déménagement? Quel style et quelle qualité répondent à sa fonction principale et procurent le meilleur retour sur investissement? Si elle transporte des articles de ménage (AM), une remorque semi-surbaissée (drop deck) de 53' est le cheval de trait de l'industrie. Reconnu comme étant le type de remorque le plus populaire de l'industrie du déménagement, ce modèle dispose d'une capacité de 4 210 pieds cubes, de six portes doubles latérales de 52" (quatre, côté bordure de rue et deux, côté rue), d'une suspension pneumatique, de barres logistiques, d'un plancher plat surbaissé à partir de la plate-forme supérieure jusqu'à l'arrière, de coffres surbaissés ainsi que de la capacité de transporter des automobiles. Une capacité additionnelle de pieds cubes est offerte avec une Maxi-Van utilisant de plus petits pneus. Si le déménageur a besoin d'une plus grande capacité de transport en pieds cubes et de sections intérieures plus profondes, des remorques à essieux multiples de style «drop-deck» pour transport hors normes sont disponibles.

Une fois que le déménageur a déterminé le mode d'utilisation et la conception de la remorque, il est important de considérer des caractéristiques qui offriront la longévité la plus longue ainsi que la possibilité d'en prolonger la vie utile par un reconditionnement en usine. Des caractéristiques telles que des rails en acier renforcé; des portes et des portes rabattables; des serrures intérieures encastrées d'aluminium anodisé et d'acier inoxydable pour les portes latérales; des charnières de portes en aluminium à anodisation dure; des pièces de coins à l'épreuve des chocs; un longeron supérieur en fonte d'aluminium protégé; des mini lumières de repère à DEL et des plafonniers à DEL; des planchers en bois dur ou en chêne; des barres logistiques à double fente renforcées et des parois intérieures de vinyle. En consultant le fabricant de remorques, vous découvrirez encore 80, tout en continuant de s'occuper du secteur de l'immigration, l'entreprise a élargi et développé sa base d'affaires commerciales. Le paysage corporatif a changé considérablement au cours des 10 à 15 dernières années avec l'arrivée de compagnies de relocalisation au Canada. Pour plusieurs compagnies d'envergure, il est approprié de pouvoir avoir recours à un seul fournisseur externe de services pour la gestion de leurs employés expatriés. Brytor a dû évoluer afin d'offrir des services de déménagement international aux compagnies de relocalisation.

En raison du haut volume d'affaires avec les immigrants, l'entreprise a également développé des services de groupage dans ses marchés clés tels le Royaume-Uni et l'Australie. Aujourd'hui, Brytor offre aussi un service de groupage commercial à sa clientèle de base de compagnies canadiennes de déménagement avec des services vers l'Australie et la Nouvelle-Zélande en plus de services dans toute l'Europe gérés par son service de groupage régulier via le Royaume-Uni.

« Nous nous concentrons toujours sur les aspects opérationnels du déménagement international, » dit Jones, « ce qui nous permet d'offrir à nos clients un service de haute qualité. Cependant, nous sommes devenus une entreprise plus orientée sur les processus afin de pouvoir nous établir comme un fournisseur de services pour la relocalisation de grandes entreprises. » Loin d'être novice dans un tel exercice de conformité, la compagnie Brytor a été l'une des premières entreprises au Canada à recevoir l'accréditation FIDI FAIM. (M. Jones est actuellement le président de l'Association canadienne FIDI.)

« La qualité est la pierre d'assise de tout ce que nous faisons... c'est la seule façon de pouvoir offrir un niveau de service continu à nos clients. Plusieurs changements se sont produits au cours des années, mais, au bout du compte, nous devons sans cesse garder à l'esprit que nous serons toujours aussi bons que le dernier déménagement que nous avons effectué! »

En jetant un regard vers le futur, le président, Michael Rathbone, anticipe que l'entreprise demeurera un déménageur international orienté vers la qualité. « Atteindre 50 ans d'existence dans n'importe quel secteur d'affaires se veut un accomplissement. Dans notre secteur d'activité, nous avons vu l'arrivée et le départ de plusieurs entreprises avec les années. La croissance continue de notre compagnie a été rendue possible par de bonnes conditions de marché ainsi que grâce à nos loyaux clients et employés. »

Une célébration est prévue pour l'automne; la direction ne veut pas en divulguer les détails à ce moment-ci car elle désire s'assurer que les employés pourront profiter d'une plaisante surprise lorsque le moment viendra.

Nos meilleurs vœux d'anniversaire, Brytor! ■ not "off the rack" models. The mover must choose a manufacturer ready to assist customers in the custom design of a high-quality trailer delivered in a timely fashion and at a competitive price point. It is also important to select a manufacturer offering a factory reconditioning program that provides the mover with most for its initial investment. When carefully considered, each of these factors will keep you on the road longer delivering the best possible service for your own customers.

plus de caractéristiques disponibles.

Ces modèles de remorque ne sont assurément pas des modèles standards. Le déménageur doit choisir un fabricant étant prêt à assister ses clients dans la conception personnalisée d'une remorque de haute qualité qui sera livrée dans les temps requis et à un niveau de prix compétitif. Il importe également de sélectionner un fabricant offrant un programme de reconditionnement en usine qui permet ainsi au déménageur de maximiser son investissement initial. Lorsqu'ils sont bien évalués, ces facteurs vous assureront de rouler plus longtemps tout en vous permettant d'offrir le meilleur service possible à vos propres clients.
