According to statistics released by the Canadian Real Estate Association (CREA), newly-listed homes were up 4.8 percent in February 2017 over the previous month. In the Greater Toronto Area, many potential move-up buyers find themselves in bidding wars in multiple-offer situations due to a short supply of listings. As a result, people aren't putting their current home for sale, therefore not moving.

The tightening of mortgage regulations aimed at cooling the market in one region causes destabilization elsewhere, again impacting the moving industry. The imbalance between limited housing supply and extreme demand in Ontario's Greater Golden Horseshoe is at an all-time high. This all bodes well for sellers, however buyers (especially first-time buyers) find themselves scrambling to juggle their finances, leaving limited funds available to pay for the services of professional movers.

The impact is obvious and the result, tragic. Left with little after paying increased housing prices and expenses associated with a home purchase (home inspectors, land transfer taxes, lawyers, contractors, home insurance, etc.), consumers are forced to call upon friends and family for a DIY move or find themselves at the mercy of rogue movers who are anxious to prey on their financially-strapped victims by promising reduced prices and great services and delivering neither. These rogue movers who run unscrupulous businesses not only cause havoc to the lives of vulnerable consumers, they take work away from professional movers who run their businesses according to guidelines set forth by our Association.

Today, more than ever, rogue movers are taking to the Internet and social media to hijack web sites of CAM members in an attempt to fool consumers into believing they are doing business with professionals when, in fact, they are doing business with criminals. Fraud in our industry is at an all-time high and these criminals are getting wealthy at the expense of unsuspecting consumers who are financially restricted.

CAM continues to work with all levels of government and the media to guide and educate consumers. CAM members are industry leaders who take pride in delivering a great service to each and every one of their customers.

I want to thank all of our members for your continued support of our Association and wish you all a very prosperous moving season. Please put our annual Golf Tournament – September 18th at Lionhead Golf Club in Brampton, Ontario – and our Annual Conference – November 19th to 21st at Hotel William Gray in Montreal, Quebec – in your schedule.

Selon les statistiques publiées par l'Association canadienne de l'immeuble (CREA), les inscriptions de nouvelles maisons étaient en hausse de 4,8% au mois de février 2017 en comparaison de l'année précédente. Dans la grande région de Toronto, de nombreux acheteurs potentiels d'une maison de catégorie supérieure se font surenchérir dans un contexte où plusieurs offres sont en compétition face à une pénurie de maisons à vendre. Par conséquent, ces acheteurs ne mettent pas leur maison actuelle sur le marché, ce qui fait qu'ils ne déménagent pas.

Le renforcement des règles hypothécaires tendant à ralentir le marché dans une région génère une déstabilisation du marché dans d'autres marchés, ce qui a également un impact sur l'industrie du déménagement. Le déséquilibre entre l'offre limitée et la forte demande de logements est sans précédent dans la région du Grand Golden Horseshoe de l'Ontario. Tout ceci est prometteur pour les vendeurs, cependant les acheteurs (spécialement les nouveaux acheteurs) doivent se démener pour jongler avec leurs finances, ce qui contribue à restreindre les fonds disponibles pour rémunérer les services de déménageurs professionnels.

L'impact est majeur et les retombées sont dramatiques. Financièrement démunis après avoir défrayé le prix élevé des résidences acquises ainsi que les dépenses liées à l'achat d'une maison (inspecteurs, droits de mutation, notaires, avocats, entrepreneurs, assurance maison, etc.), les consommateurs sont forcés de faire appel à leurs amis et aux membres de leur famille pour déménager eux-mêmes ou se retrouvent à la merci de déménageurs malhonnêtes anxieux de profiter de ces victimes à court d'argent en leur promettant des prix réduits et un excellent service tout en ne respectant pas leurs engagements. Ces déménageurs malhonnêtes qui exploitent de tels commerces ne font pas que causer des dommages irréparables à des consommateurs vulnérables, ils s'approprient également le travail habituellement dévolu aux déménageurs professionnels qui exploitent leurs entreprises en suivant les normes établies par notre association.

Aujourd'hui, plus que jamais, les déménageurs malhonnêtes utilisent l'Internet et les médias sociaux pour pirater les sites Web des membres de l'ACD dans le but de mystifier les consommateurs qui croient ainsi transiger avec des professionnels alors qu'en fait, ils transigent avec des criminels. Les fraudes dans notre industrie sont à un sommet jamais égalé et ces criminels s'enrichissent aux dépens de consommateurs sans méfiance qui sont financièrement démunis.

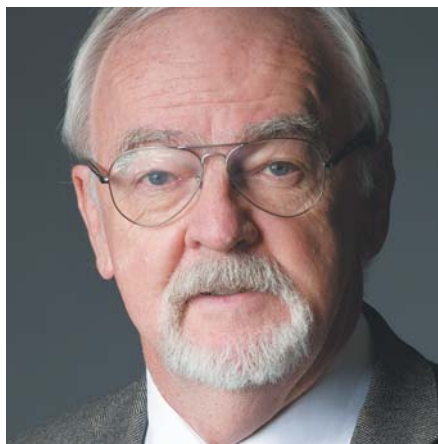

L'ACD poursuit ses efforts en travaillant avec tous les niveaux de gouvernement et les médias afin de mieux guider et éduquer les consommateurs. Les membres de l'ACD figurent parmi les leaders Change is in the wind. Change – Today's New Constant is also the theme of this year's conference. Change is everywhere: in politics, culture, economics and technology. Politics has seen the growth globally of a populist movement, changing governments in the US, Holland, Hong Kong and potentially Germany, Italy and the list goes on. Populations are wanting to get away from the traditional patterns of legislation or the way their parents did things. Where globalization has been the buzzword, more insular internal movements are being explored. "What is best for me" seems to be the trend. We are seeing very quickly that change to the status quo is not easy nor is it necessarily as beneficial as initially thought. The availability of real time information through the various forms of electronic media has made globalization real. Individuals' desires and expectations far surpass the capability of the local environment/economy to meet those expectations. But knowing there is something different available increases demand and therefore trade.

In any case, change is with us, domestically and internationally. The world's economies are so intertwined that trying to disassociate them has resulted in more chaos with little true benefit to one side or the other. How do we cope? Embrace change, explore new alternatives. Entrepreneurs in every age have taken advantage of new ideas and technologies to open even more opportunities in unique niches. The mobile phone of the 80s has evolved into the hand-held computer of the 21st century. This small device that needed a separate battery case to allow it to be mobile is now useable globally. We talk on it, text on it, bank with it, diarize our life and have lost the need (and in many cases the ability) to remember even our own phone number. The mobile phone, now the smartphone, has become an integral part of people's lives globally; from the Arctic Circle, sub-Saharan Africa and the jungles of the Amazon. Now it is more than a two-way person-to-person communication device, it allows the users to receive more information than most people want or can handle. News channels, bulletins, advertising and junk mail all flood to the smartphone.

For our industry the connectivity of the smart phone is only the tip of the iceberg. With available applications (apps) and utilizing the camera capability embedded in nearly every unit, our sales people can do detailed inventories and estimates without entering the consumer's home. In a very brief period, we have gone from the consumer inputting data into an online spreadsheet to get an automated quote, to working with a remote site and video to more accurately estimate what has to be moved. Realistically, with the growth of artificial intelligence, the next

Le changement est dans l'air. Le changement – Nouvelle réalité d'aujourd'hui est également le thème de la conférence de cette année. Les changements surviennent partout : en politique, dans la culture, dans l'économie et dans la technologie. La politique a connu, à l'échelle mondiale, une forte croissance d'un mouvement populiste avec les différents changements de gouvernement aux É.-U., en Hollande, à Hong Kong et, probablement, en Allemagne, en Italie et la liste s'allonge. Les populations cherchent à s'éloigner des schémas de législation traditionnels ou de la façon de faire de leurs parents. Alors que la globalisation a déjà été le mot à la mode, on constate aujourd'hui que les pays démontrent beaucoup plus une volonté de se refermer. "Qu'est-ce qui me conviendrait le mieux ?" semble être dorénavant une tendance fort recherchée. Nous remarquons rapidement que le changement au statu quo n'est ni facile ni nécessairement aussi bénéfique que ce que l'on croyait initialement. La disponibilité d'une information en temps réel par le biais de diverses formes de médias électroniques a contribué à faire de la globalisation un fait réel. Les désirs et les attentes des individus surpassent de loin la capacité de l'environnement et de l'économie locale à répondre à ces attentes. Mais le fait de savoir que quelque chose de différent est disponible ne fait qu'accroître la demande et, par conséquent, les échanges commerciaux.

De toute façon, le changement est parmi nous, aussi bien localement qu'à l'international. Les économies mondiales sont tellement liées que le simple fait d'essayer de les dissocier a résulté en une augmentation du chaos ne générant que très peu de bénéfices réels des deux côtés. Comment peut-on y faire face? Soyez ouvert au changement, explorez de nouvelles alternatives. À toutes les époques, les entrepreneurs ont tiré avantage des nouvelles idées et des nouvelles technologies afin d'ouvrir de nouvelles opportunités dans des créneaux particuliers. Le téléphone mobile des années 80 a évolué en un ordinateur portatif propre au 21^e siècle. Ce petit appareil qui requerrait auparavant un bloc de piles séparé afin d'assurer une certaine mobilité peut dorénavant être utilisé à l'échelle mondiale. Nous l'utilisons pour parler, pour texter, pour effectuer des transactions bancaires, tenir à jour nos activités quotidiennes et nous avons même perdu le besoin (et dans plusieurs cas, l'habileté) de mémoriser notre propre numéro de téléphone. Le téléphone mobile, maintenant connu comme le téléphone intelligent, est devenu partie intégrante de la vie des gens partout dans le monde, du cercle polaire arctique à l'Afrique sub-saharienne et aux jungles de l'Amazonie. Il s'agit maintenant beaucoup plus qu'un simple appareil de communication entre deux personnes, il

The Moving Industry in the UK – 9 Months on from the 2016 Brexit Referendum

By Ian Studd

Britain remains hugely competitive, and extremely efficient at processing continental deliveries.

In the months following the Brexit vote, we have seen changeable economic conditions and the UK housing market is currently slightly more unpredictable than Members might ideally like. That said, most Members have reported encouraging activity levels following the referendum in June with overall volumes being in line with or exceeding those achieved in 2015. One caveat however is that there is still real concern about opportunity levels as we move through 2017 with many members reporting less certainty in the ‘opportunity bank’ when compared to recent years. However, if we look in a little more detail at the output for each market sector (overseas, domestic and commercial moving) there is, generally speaking, a degree of positivity that the world of moving will carry on post Brexit in much the same way as it has done through previous changes in the political and social-economic landscapes.

Overseas shipments have remained reasonably constant but the changes to the ToR (Transfer of Residence) legislation have impacted on inbound shipments which together with the container weighing issue has presented some real challenges to members of our Overseas Group. Representatives from the BAR attended a meeting with HMRC (Her Majesty’s Revenue & Customs) on January 30th to discuss our specific concerns relative to the changes in ToR legislation. In advance of that meeting, the BAR had identified numerous technical and operational concerns to HMRC which formed the basis for the agenda at the meeting. We are pleased to be able to report that the HMRC officers who attended, accepted that there are indeed flaws in the process of how these changes have been communicated and implemented, and they adopted a very conciliatory and reasonable approach to the concerns raised. Clearly the legislation is not going to be reversed, but we are confident that our concerns have been taken on board, and that HMRC have taken away the action to consider how to adapt the process and to consider workable solutions to allow our Members, their partners and their customers, to ensure complicity with the legislative changes. HMRC staff are extremely keen to address those issues/concerns without further delay and timelines have been agreed to advise on any further process changes or updates by the end of March. Issues now actively being worked on by HMRC and the representatives from the BAR include the following;

- A proposed new email address for the TOR01 online application.
- TOR01 online form: Side notes to help the shipper completing the form - printable version or full view version.
- Staffing and processing problems during peak times.
- Technical clearance issue (customs codes).

It is important to note that the date for mandatory completion is still 31st March 2017 and the focus of our attention is in obtaining resolutions to the outstanding issues by that date. We have also agreed with HMRC that we will produce a CIP (Customs Information Paper) to cover off all of the questions that the BAR have raised. This should hopefully be drafted by the end of February and following sense checking and final comments by the BAR, we will issue to all interested parties.

It is important that we take this opportunity to dispel the popularly-held belief that it is no longer possible to send a shipment for delivery to the continent via the UK. It is of course entirely possible to do this, although of course there are now a couple of additional administrative barriers to overcome that result in the need to allow a little more time and effort in engaging in the process together with the payment of modest additional charges, such as the raising of a T1 transfer document and the payment of clearance charges in the country of destination. Our Members have re-established old agent networks and so there is now, once again, a comprehensive network of agents across Europe who are able to facilitate customs clearances in their country and, very importantly, to discharge the T1 document. Although there is of course a cost implication, this is no more than European agents would in any event charge for performing the clearance of a shipment arriving directly at a continental port. Britain remains hugely competitive, and extremely efficient at processing continental deliveries, despite this additional process burden. Britain remains at the hub of importing goods into Europe for a very good reason, and that is that most migration traffic from worldwide destinations is destined for the UK, and therefore combining continental shipments through the UK remains a very easy, and extremely cost efficient, option from most countries. Perhaps the easiest way to describe these changes, in terms of impact, is to simply think of the new process as being identical to that used were the shipment to be delivered into Switzerland - in other words, just a slight delay and a little more red tape. It is also extremely important to remember that the new EUROPEAN requirement for customs clearance has nothing whatsoever to do with BREXIT, it is European legislation that was on the EU statute books long before BREXIT had even been considered.

In addition to the changes to ToR legislation, we have been inundated with media talk that many major blue chip companies will quit the UK as a result of the Brexit vote. In fact, current trends are exactly the opposite with major investment programmes being discussed and/or in place across the financial, manufacturing, automotive and, of course, service industries. In the immediate aftermath of the referendum, the doomsayers claimed that the UK economy would crash, however following a week or two of uncertainty which was to be expected, the UK economy has grown and is the strongest of all member states and also has the lowest level of unemployment. We must also remember that the UK will not fully depart the European Union until 2019 and that the process of separation will inevitably bring opportunities to the fore that we cannot yet see.

Within the UK domestic market, the good news is that the number of people looking to buy a home rose at the end of 2016, with signs that sales agreed also rose. The Office for National Statistics reported that UK average house prices increased by 6.9% in the year to October 2016, with housing market indicators for 2017 suggesting a period of modestly increasing demand and steady growth in price levels. This is based on the Bank of England's Agents Summary for 2016, which said there was evidence of recovery in the housing market following the weakness seen in the immediate aftermath of the referendum. The extent of the pickup has been variable across regions and price brackets as is evidenced by house price annual inflation being 7.4% in England, 4.4% in Wales and 4% in Scotland. Annual house price increases in England were driven by annual increases in London (7.7%), the South East (9.1%) and the East of England (12.3%).

BAR Affiliate Member, the property portal Rightmove, reported that the price of property coming to market fell by 2.1% (-£6,511 or about -$10,800 Canadian) in November 2016, which was exactly in line with the seasonal average of last six years. Rightmove also forecasts a 2% house price increase in 2017, the seventh consecutive year of rising prices and encouragingly reports that demand was up in November and December 2016 when compared to 2015: They report that website visits were up by 9% and sales agreed were up 5.2% nationally and up in all regions except London. However, supply was still tight with new listing numbers up by just 2%, and available stock for sale per agent down 5%.

The National Association of Estate Agents (NAEA) market report for 2016 indicated that demand for housing rose by 16%, while the supply of available housing dropped marginally. The average number of house hunters registered per member branch increased and at the same time, the number of houses available to buy decreased marginally. Mark Hayward, Managing Director of the NAEA commented: "This report proves that buyer confidence is growing, which is obviously reassuring, given that we expected uncertainty following Brexit. Although supply has dropped marginally, this does not concern us as it's still higher than the levels we saw immediately before and after the referendum in June 2016.

So, the general feeling amongst BAR Members towards the domestic moving market in the UK is one of cautious optimism as we head into 2017 although the availability of affordable housing remains a concern as does the number of unregulated 'moving' companies that operate throughout the UK causing huge pressure to the margins of the professional movers, and reputational damage to the industry as a whole. The BAR remains committed to lobbying for more regulation across our sector and at the same time to educating the consumer on the risks of engaging with unregulated providers.

The commercial moving market is also experiencing some significant challenges with some UK-based employers considering their longer term occupancy strategies. That coupled with the ever growing influence of TFM (Total Facilities Management) companies across the sector also presents challenges to the traditional mover/client relationship which potentially 'commoditises' the service offering of commercial moving companies and our CMG (Commercial Moving Group) Members are having to work hard to secure their positions as professional and uniquely qualified service providers in a sector that is seeking to 'bundle' its services through narrower supply chains.

permet à ses utilisateurs de recevoir plus d'informations que ce que l'on recherche habituellement ou que ce que l'on peut assimiler. Les chaînes et les bulletins de nouvelles, la publicité et les pourriels inondent notre téléphone intelligent.

Pour notre industrie, la connectivité du téléphone intelligent représente seulement la pointe de l'iceberg. Grâce aux diverses applications disponibles ainsi qu'à l'utilisation des possibilités des caméras intégrées dans pratiquement tous les téléphones intelligents, nos gens de vente peuvent effectuer des inventaires détaillés ainsi que des soumissions sans même devoir pénétrer dans la résidence d'un client. En une très brève période de temps, nous sommes passés d'une situation dans laquelle le consommateur entrain les données requises sur un chiffrier en ligne afin de recevoir une soumission automatique à une situation où nous pouvons travailler à partir d'un site éloigné et d'une vidéo afin de mieux évaluer l'ampleur d'un déménagement. De façon réaliste, avec le développement de l'intelligence artificielle, la prochaine étape sera de permettre à l'ordinateur de visualiser l'ensemble d'un déménagement et d'ainsi avoir la capacité d'identifier et de calculer le poids et les dimensions des biens mobiliers qui seront examinés par l'ordinateur. Quoi d'autre? Des unités de déménagement longue distance sans chauffeur et, pourquoi pas, un réseau de distribution et de livraison moléculaires?

"Téléportation, Scotty!"

Notre conférence portera principalement sur le changement: les impacts du Brexit, de l'économie canadienne et encore plus. Nous espérons grandement vous rencontrer à Montréal.

L'industrie du déménagement au R.-U. – 9 mois après le référendum sur le Brexit

par Ian Studd

La Grande-Bretagne demeure grandement compétitive et extrêmement efficace dans le traitement des expéditions à destination du continent.

Au cours des mois qui ont suivi le vote sur le Brexit, nous avons connu des conditions économiques variables et le marché immobilier du R.-U. est actuellement plus imprévisible que ce que les membres souhaiteraient idéalement. Cela dit, la majorité de nos membres ont signalé des niveaux d'activité encourageants suite au référendum tenu au mois de juin avec des volumes globaux relativement similaires ou légèrement en hausse en comparaison avec ceux de 2015. Toutefois, une mise en garde est de mise, à savoir qu'il existe toujours une inquiétude réelle relativement aux niveaux d'opportunités en cette année 2017 alors que beaucoup de nos membres signalent plus d'incertitudes quant à cette fenêtre d'opportunités en comparaison aux années récentes. Cependant, si nous examinons plus en détail la productivité de chaque segment de marché (déménagements outre-mer, domestiques et commerciaux) il y a, en général, un niveau élevé de positivisme quant au fait que l'industrie du déménagement poursuivra sur sa lancée dans l'après-Brexit de la même façon qu'elle a su traverser les précédentes périodes de changement ayant affecté les paysages politiques et sociaux-économiques.

Les expéditions outre-mer sont demeurées raisonnablement stables, mais les changements à la réglementation ToR (changement de résidence) ont influé négativement sur les expéditions entrantes qui, de pair avec la problématique liée à la pesée des conteneurs, ont généré de réels défis aux membres de notre secteur outre-mer. Le 30 janvier, les représentants de la BAR ont rencontré l'agence britannique du revenu et des douanes, la Her Majesty's Revenue & Customs (HMRC), concernant les changements apportés à la réglementation sur les CDR (ToR). Préalablement à cette réunion, la BAR avait informé l'HMRC de ses nombreuses inquiétudes tant techniques qu'opérationnelles qui ont servi de base de discussion pour l'ordre du jour de la réunion. Nous sommes heureux de pouvoir vous informer que les représentants de l'HMRC ayant participé à cette réunion ont reconnu le fait qu'il y a effectivement des lacunes dans le processus de communication et d'implantation de ces changements et qu'ils ont adopté une approche fort conciliante et raisonnable quant aux inquiétudes soulevées. Il est évident que la réglementation ne sera pas renversée, mais nous sommes confiants que nos inquiétudes ont été prises en considération et que l'HMRC a repoussé cette mesure afin de considérer des alternatives potentielles pour adapter le processus ainsi que des solutions réalistes dans le but de permettre à nos membres, leurs partenaires et leurs clients, d'être à l'aise avec les changements législatifs. Les représentants de l'HMRC sont extrêmement désireux de solutionner ces problématiques/inquiétudes dès que possible et un échéancier a été établi afin de communiquer adéquatement tous les changements futurs relativement à ce processus ainsi que les mises à jour à venir, et ce, d'ici la fin du mois de mars. Les enjeux sur lesquels travaillent activement l'HMRC et les représentants de la BAR sont les suivants :

- Une nouvelle adresse courriel pour les demandes TOR01 en ligne.
- Formulaire TOR01 en ligne: Des annotations au document afin d'assister l'expéditeur qui doit compléter le formulaire - version complète ou imprimable.
- Disponibilité du personnel et traitement des problématiques en périodes de pointe.
- Problèmes relatifs aux approbations techniques (codes douaniers).

Il est important de noter que la date d'adoption obligatoire de ces travaux demeure le 31 mars 2017 et que nous centrons nos efforts pour obtenir des solutions applicables aux problématiques existantes d'ici cette date. Nous avons également convenu avec l'HMRC que nous produirons un CIP (document informatif sur les douanes) pour couvrir toutes les questions soulevées par la BAR. Ce document devrait idéalement être rédigé d'ici la fin de février et, suite aux revues et aux observations finales effectuées par la Bar, nous en publierons le résultat à l'intention de tous les intéressés.

Nous profitons de cette occasion pour réfuter cette croyance populaire que ce n'est plus possible d'acheminer une expédition vers le continent en passant par le R.-U. C'est bien sûr effectivement possible de le faire, bien qu'évidemment, il y ait maintenant quelques barrières administratives supplémentaires à surmonter, ce qui implique l'allocation d'un peu plus de temps et d'efforts afin de compléter ce processus ainsi que le paiement de modestes frais supplémentaires tels que la levée d'un formulaire de transfert T1 et le paiement de frais de dédouanement dans le pays de destination. Nos membres ont rétabli leurs anciens réseaux d'agents et on retrouve dorénavant à nouveau un réseau complet d'agents à travers l'Europe, capables de faciliter les procédures de dédouanement dans leur pays et, chose plus importante, de compléter la quittance de dédouanement T1. Bien qu'il y ait bien sûr un supplément de coût, ce n'est rien de plus que ce que les agents européens factureraient de toute façon pour exécuter le dédouanement d'une cargaison qui arriverait directement dans un port du continent. La Grande-Bretagne est toujours grandement compétitive et extrêmement efficace dans le traitement des expéditions à destination du continent en dépit du fardeau additionnel généré par ce processus. La Grande-Bretagne demeure la plaque tournante de l'importation des marchandises en Europe pour une très bonne raison; c'est en partie parce que la plupart des expéditions provenant de destinations internationales sont destinées au Royaume-Uni et, par conséquent, la consolidation de multiples cargaisons continentales transitant par le Royaume-Uni demeure une option relativement facile et extrêmement économique pour la plupart des pays. En termes d'impacts, la façon la plus simple de décrire ces changements est de considérer simplement ce nouveau processus comme étant similaire à celui utilisé pour une expédition à destination de la Suisse - en d'autres termes, un léger délai et un peu plus de bureaucratie requis. C'est aussi extrêmement important de se rappeler que la nouvelle exigence EUROPÉENNE pour le dédouanement n'a strictement rien à voir avec le BREXIT, c'est plutôt avec la législation européenne que l'on retrouvait dans les textes de loi de l'UE bien avant que le BREXIT eût été considéré.

En plus des changements à la réglementation ToR, nous avons été inondés par les commentaires médiatiques qui clamaient que beaucoup de sociétés importantes quitteraient le Royaume-Uni en raison du résultat du vote sur le Brexit. En fait, les tendances actuelles sont exactement à l'opposé avec plusieurs programmes d'investissements majeurs présentement en discussion et/ou en place dans l'ensemble des secteurs financiers, manufacturiers, de l'automobile et, bien sûr, de l'industrie des services. À la suite du référendum, les alarmistes ont proclamé que l'économie du Royaume-Uni s'effondrerait alors qu'en fait, après une période d'incertitude d'une semaine ou deux qui était anticipée, l'économie du Royaume-Uni s'est renforcée et se veut la plus forte parmi celles de tous les états membres tout en affichant le niveau de chômage le plus bas. Nous devons également nous souvenir que le Royaume-Uni ne quittera pas complètement l'Union Européenne avant 2019 et que le processus de séparation apportera inévitablement des opportunités que nous ne pouvons pas encore quantifier.

Dans le marché domestique du Royaume-Uni, la bonne nouvelle est que le nombre de personnes qui considèrent acheter une maison est à la hausse à la fin de 2016, indiquant également que les ventes finales sont également en hausse. Le Bureau des Statistiques Nationales a rapporté que le prix moyen des maisons au Royaume-Uni a augmenté de 6,9% au cours de cette année jusqu'à octobre 2016, avec des indicateurs du marché immobilier laissant entrevoir une période de demande croissante modeste et une croissance constante des niveaux de prix pour 2017. Ces informations sont fondées sur le Rapport des agents de la Banque d'Angleterre pour 2016 indiquant qu'il y a des signes que le marché immobilier est en reprise suite à la baisse connue immédiatement après l'impact du référendum. L'ampleur de cette reprise et les échelles de prix ont fluctué selon les régions comme en témoigne le taux d'inflation annuel du prix des maisons qui est de 7,4% en Angleterre, de 4,4% dans le pays de Galles et de 4% en Écosse. Les augmentations annuelles du prix des maisons en Angleterre ont été principalement générées par les taux de croissance annuelle à Londres (7,7%), dans le Sud-Est (9,1%) et dans l'Est de l'Angleterre (12,3%).

Un membre affilié de la BAR, le portail immobilier Rightmove, a rapporté que le prix des propriétés introduites sur le marché a chuté de 2,1% en novembre 2016 (-6,511 £ ou approximativement -10 800 $ CA), ce qui correspondait exactement à la moyenne saisonnière des six dernières années. Rightmove prévoit aussi que le prix des maisons augmentera de 2% en 2017, une septième année consécutive de croissance des prix, et souligne avec optimisme que la demande était également en hausse pour les mois de novembre et décembre 2016 comparativement à l'année 2015. Ils indiquent que les visites sur leur site Web étaient en hausse de 9% et que les ventes effectuées étaient en hausse de 5,2% sur une base nationale, à l'exception de celles de la région de Londres. Cependant, les offres demeuraient restreintes avec une hausse de seulement 2% des nouvelles propriétés offertes et un niveau d'inventaire par agent en baisse de 5%.

Le rapport de marché de l'Association nationale des agents immobiliers (NAEA) pour 2016 indique que la demande pour des maisons a augmenté de 16% pendant que les offres de propriétés diminuaient de façon marginale. Le nombre moyen de personnes à la recherche d'une maison, enregistré par succursales membres, a augmenté et, au même moment, le nombre de propriétés disponibles à l'achat a diminué de façon marginale. Mark Hayward, le directeur général du NAEA a commenté: "Ce rapport prouve que la confiance des acheteurs est à la hausse, ce qui est rassurant compte-tenu du fait que nous avons anticipé un certain niveau d'incertitude suite au référendum sur le Brexit. Bien que les offres aient légèrement été à la baisse, nous ne sommes pas inquiets de cette situation car elles se situent encore à un niveau plus élevé que les niveaux que nous avons connus immédiatement avant et après le référendum tenu en juin 2016.

Ainsi, le sentiment général parmi les membres de la BAR envers le marché domestique du déménagement au Royaume-Uni en est un d'optimisme prudent alors que débute l'année 2017, bien que la disponibilité de propriétés à des prix abordables demeure une inquiétude tout comme le nombre de "compagnies de déménagement" illégitimes qui sont en activité partout au Royaume-Uni et qui contribuent à créer une pression énorme sur les marges des déménageurs professionnels et à générer de sérieux dommages à la réputation pour l'ensemble de l'industrie. La BAR s'est engagée à poursuivre les démarches afin de requérir une meilleure réglementation dans notre secteur et, en même temps, à mieux éduquer le consommateur sur les risques de transiger avec des fournisseurs de services illégitimes.

Le marché du déménagement commercial fait aussi face à des défis considérables avec certains employeurs implantés au Royaume-Uni qui revoient actuellement leurs stratégies d'implantation à long terme. Ce fait, associé à l'influence croissante d'entreprises de type TFM (Total Facilities Management) dans ce secteur, présente aussi des défis quant à la relation d'affaires traditionnelle entre le déménageur et le client qui pourrait potentiellement tenter de "marchander" les services offerts par les compagnies de déménagement commercial et nos membres du groupe commercial (CMG) doivent donc déployer de gros efforts pour assurer leur position à titre de fournisseurs de services professionnels et qualifiés dans un secteur qui cherche à regrouper ses services par le biais de chaînes d'approvisionnement beaucoup plus intégrées.

Meldrum of Montreal—The Story Continues

By Tom Filgiano

The history of Meldrum
The Mover parallels that of Canada and Montreal.

Celebrating its 85th anniversary, Meldrum The Mover has been a landmark in west central Montreal since 1932. Its head office, situated on Sherbrooke Street West at Walkley Avenue with its unique large rooftop sign, has 48,000 square feet of security vaulted storage situated on five floors. Its Montreal suburban office adds another 25,000 square feet of palletized storage.

The story begins in the early 1930s with Jim and Agnes Meldrum, loyal and trusted employees of Hill The Mover of Hamilton, Ont. At that time, Hill The Mover was considered the premier moving company of Ontario, having offices in several locations in that province; however, it did not have a presence in Montreal, the financial capital and largest city in Canada. The Hill family sent Jim and Agnes to open a new office in Montreal. A short time afterwards, Canada discovered that the Great Depression of 1929 was deepening and was there to stay. The Hill family decided to close the Montreal office, cut back on its branches throughout Ontario and focus on entrenching and strengthening its head office in Hamilton. Jim and Agnes were instructed to close the office and were offered their former positions in Hamilton. But Jim and Agnes still believed there was a good future for them in Montreal and that a new first-class long-distance moving and storage operation was a viable option in that city. After several amiable discussions between the Hill and Meldrum families, Jim and Agnes bought assets from Hill The Mover, and Meldrum The Mover was born in 1932.

The history of Meldrum The Mover parallels that of Canada and Montreal. During the Second World War, Meldrum The Mover was called to duty to transport top-secret shipments for what was later known as the “Manhattan Project.” Many times during that period, three identical Meldrum tractor trailer units would be dispatched to the Chalk River Laboratories in the Ottawa Valley. All three units would back to a loading dock, but only one trailer would be loaded after the drivers had been escorted off site. The drivers would return and each be given a different destination, along with an RCMP escort. Meldrum The Mover knew it was involved in something important, but had no idea of its real importance or, for that matter, the existence of an atomic bomb.

As the decades passed, Meldrum The Mover enjoyed its position in the Montreal marketplace, with the city being the head-office capital of Canada. Business grew along with the city. Expo 1967 proved to be another landmark time, and Meldrum The Mover was called to move, assemble and organize many of the Expo pavilions.

Montreal changed forever with the advent of the FLQ and the October Crisis of 1970. In 1976, Quebec voted in its first separatist government, thereby causing many of Canada's largest businesses to reassess their presence in Montreal. As it has become known, "The Exodus" was a boon for Meldrum The Mover and, for 15 years, Meldrum ran day and night 12 months a year relocating employees and head offices out of Montreal, primarily to Toronto, Calgary and several areas of the USA.

As in life, there is rarely an ill wind that doesn't blow some good. Montreal was broadsided by The Exodus, but like every great prizefighter, she got up and dusted herself off for the next round. Today, Montreal is a fluently bilingual and exciting multicultural high-tech centre with a world-class port, hosting four of Canada's largest universities, and just a stone's throw away from New York City, Boston and Philadelphia. Companies are finding that Montreal offers them a unique work environment in North America with the advantage of a distinctly European flavour.

Meanwhile, in 1952, Jim Meldrum passed away unexpectedly and Agnes, who was a co-founder of the company, took the helm and successfully ran the company for another 15 years. During that time, Agnes, who was always known as "Mrs. Meldrum" and never by her first name, was one of only two women to hold a senior executive position in the moving industry.

Shortly after Jim's death, Agnes invited her nephew, Quin Filgiano, to join the business. Having just married, he took the challenge and joined Meldrum The Mover later in 1952. Agnes and Quin were a great team and complemented each other wonderfully. After Agnes' retirement, Quin was responsible for the continued growth of the company until an unexpected accident in 1989 forced his premature retirement from the company and the industry.

Since 1989, Tom and Paul Filgiano, the third generation of the family, have led the company. During this time, Meldrum The Mover expanded and opened a suburban office. It also diversified into international moving and entered the document-storage business.

Since 2016, Meldrum The Mover is a fourth-generation family business. Ken Filgiano, after completing his MBA and working for a couple of years in the social media industry, has joined the company.

Today, as always, the name says it all... the company is "Meldrum – The Mover" and it is 100 percent Montreal. In today's changing times, it is reassuring to see one of Canada's oldest moving companies well placed and ready to take on the challenges of the twenty-first century.

Meldrum de Montréal—L'histoire se poursuit

Par Tom Filgiano

L'histoire de Meldrum The
Mover a suivi la même tangente que celle du Canada et de Montréal.

Célébrant son 85^e anniversaire, l'entreprise Les déménageurs Meldrum est une référence dans le centre-ouest de Montréal depuis 1932. Son siège social, situé à l'intersection de la rue Sherbrooke ouest et de l'avenue Walkley, est identifié par sa très grande enseigne sur le toit et est doté d'une superficie de 48 000 pieds carrés incluant des facilités d'entreposage dans des chambres individuelles de haute sécurité réparties sur cinq étages. Son immeuble à bureaux situé en banlieue de Montréal offre un espace d'entreposage additionnel de 25 000 pieds carrés pour le stockage de conteneurs sur palette.

Son histoire débute au début des années 30 avec Jim et Agnes Meldrum, des employés loyaux et de confiance de la compagnie Hill The Mover d'Hamilton en Ontario. En ce temps-là, Hill The Mover était considérée comme une entreprise de déménagement de premier plan en Ontario, possédant des bureaux dans plusieurs endroits de cette province: cependant, elle n'avait pas encore de présence à Montréal, capitale financière et plus grande ville du Canada. La famille Hill envoya Jim et Agnes à Montréal pour y ouvrir un nouveau bureau. Peu de temps après, les canadiens constataient que la Grande Dépression de 1929 s'aggravait et n'était pas près de disparaître. La famille Hill décide alors de fermer le bureau de Montréal, de réduire le nombre de ses succursales en Ontario et de se concentrer sur la protection et la consolidation de son siège social à Hamilton. Jim et Agnes ont alors reçu les instructions de fermer le bureau et se sont vus offrir de reprendre leurs anciennes positions à Hamilton. Mais, Jim et Agnes croyaient toujours que le futur s'annonçait positif pour eux à Montréal et qu'une nouvelle exploitation de déménagement et d'entreposage de première classe demeurerait une option viable dans cette ville. Après plusieurs discussions amicales entre les familles Hill et Meldrum, Jim et Agnes acquirent les actifs de la compagnie Hill The Mover pour ainsi faire place à Meldrum The Mover en 1932.

Le bon vieux temps avec nos bons vieux amis • The good old days with some of our good old boys L'histoire de Meldrum The Mover a suivi la même tangente que celle du Canada et de Montréal. Au cours de la Seconde Guerre Mondiale, Meldrum the Mover fut appelée à servir afin de transporter des expéditions ultrasecrètes pour ce qui fut plus tard connu comme le "Projet Manhattan". À plusieurs reprises au cours de cette période, trois camions à semi-remorque identiques de Meldrum allaient être acheminés aux laboratoires de Chalk River dans la vallée de l'Outaouais. Les trois camions devaient reculer à un quai de chargement, mais un seul camion allait être chargé après que les chauffeurs furent conduits à l'extérieur du site. Les chauffeurs revenaient par la suite et chacun se voyait confier une destination différente ainsi qu'une escorte de la GRC. Les Déménageurs Meldrum savaient qu'ils étaient impliqués dans quelque chose de très important, mais ils n'avaient aucune idée de son importance réelle et, pour cette même raison, de l'existence d'une bombe atomique.

Siège social de Meldrum dans le centre-ouest de Montréal (NDG) • Meldrum head office in west-central Montreal (NDG)

Au cours des décennies suivantes, Les Déménageurs Meldrum ont bénéficié de leur position de choix dans le marché de Montréal en raison du fait que la ville était la capitale centre du Canada. Les affaires allaient en croissance tout comme la cité elle-même. L'Expo 1967 s'est avérée une autre période marquante, et Les Déménageurs Meldrum étaient mis à contribution pour déménager, assembler et organiser plusieurs des pavillons de l'Expo.

Montréal changea pour toujours avec la venue du FLQ et de la crise d'octobre 1970. En 1976, le Québec a élu son premier gouvernement séparatiste, amenant ainsi plusieurs grandes compagnies canadiennes à réévaluer leur présence à Montréal. Comme on le sait maintenant, cet "exode" a contribué à générer un boom économique pour Les Déménageurs Meldrum et, pendant plus de 15 ans, Meldrum fonctionna à plein régime, jour et nuit pendant 12 mois par année, tout en relocalisant des employés et des sièges sociaux à l'extérieur de Montréal, principalement à Toronto, Calgary et dans plusieurs emplacements aux États-Unis.

Tout comme dans la vie, à quelque chose malheur est bon. Montréal a été affectée par cet exode, mais tout comme pour les grands champions, elle s'est relevée et a connu une renaissance pour une nouvelle période. Aujourd'hui, Montréal est un fabuleux centre technologique bilingue et multiculturel, doté d'installations portuaires de premier plan et abritant quatre des plus importantes universités au pays, tout en étant localisée à un jet de pierre des villes de New-York, Boston et Philadelphie. Les entreprises réalisent que Montréal leur offre un environnement de travail exceptionnel en Amérique du Nord avec une saveur européenne bien distincte.

Cependant, en 1952, Jim Meldrum est décédé prématurément et Agnes, co-fondatrice de l'entreprise, reprit le flambeau et dirigea l'entreprise pendant encore 15 ans. Au cours de cette période, Agnes, connue principalement comme "Madame Meldrum" et non par son prénom, a été l'une des deux seules femmes à occuper un poste de haut dirigeant dans l'industrie du déménagement.

Peu de temps après le décès de Jim, Agnes a invité son neveu, Quin Filgiano, à se joindre à l'entreprise. Récemment marié, il décida de relever le défi et se joindra à l'entreprise en 1952. Agnes et Quin formèrent une excellente équipe et se complétaient merveilleusement bien. Après la retraite d'Agnes, Quin a eu la responsabilité de poursuivre la croissance de l'entreprise jusqu'à ce qu'un accident imprévisible l'ait forcé à se retirer prématurément de l'entreprise et de l'industrie en 1989.

Depuis 1989, Tom et Paul Filgiano, troisième génération de la famille, ont dirigé l'entreprise. Au cours de cette période, Les Déménageurs Meldrum se sont développés et ont ouvert des installations en banlieue de Montréal. L'entreprise s'est également diversifiée pour devenir un déménageur international et intégrer des opérations d'entreposage de documents.

Depuis 2016, l'entreprise Les Déménageurs Meldrum a intégré une quatrième génération. Ken Filgiano s'est joint à l'entreprise après avoir complété son MBA et avoir travaillé quelques années dans l'industrie des médias sociaux.

Aujourd'hui, comme toujours, le nom dit tout... l'entreprise est connue comme "Les Déménageurs Meldrum – Meldrum The Mover" et elle fait partie du paysage montréalais à 100%. Dans la période de changement actuelle, il est rassurant de voir l'une des plus anciennes compagnies de déménagement au Canada si bien positionnée et prête à relever les défis du 21^e siècle.

Tom Filgiano est le président de l'entreprise Les Déménageurs Meldrum Inc.

An Update on Developments

On a regular basis, consumers are being scammed, extorted, defrauded, robbed and cheated by rogue operators appearing as legitimate movers. Canadians move from coast to coast and the problems they encounter with rogue businesses therefore can be multi-jurisdictional. Since most governing legislation is provincial, consumers are forced to search for a resolution in a maze of jurisdictions.

We last reported on CAM's ongoing efforts eradicate this scourge and coordinate consumer protection efforts in the spring 2015 issue of our magazine, The Canadian Mover. From-time-to-time we've also included news bites in our monthly newsletter, The Movers Edge, to keep our members and followers informed on the latest developments and media stories.

In this issue, we're introducing a new regular column that'll appear in our magazines in which we'll comment on this plague on our industry and consumers and the progress being made to reduce its harmful effect. Here's a timeline of developments so far.

| January 2014 | CAM declares 2014 to be the Year of the Reputable Mover and dedicates the year to promoting quality services in the household goods moving industry and reducing the detrimental effects that the underground rogue businesses passing as professional movers is having on consumers, the moving industry and taxpayers. |
| | CAM writes to federal and provincial government offices and agencies to spur a collaborative effort to protect Canadian consumers from the harm being done to them by rogue moving companies. CAM receives a few positive responses and a few recommendations for actions. However, ministries generally indicate that this problem is the responsibility of another ministry. |
| March 2014 | CAM issues a press release: The Canadian Association of Movers Declares 2014 to be the Year of the Reputable Mover. |
| September 2014 | CAM sends a second round of letters to various federal and provincial ministries and agencies to provide a status report on CAM's efforts and to ask for a primary contact person to engage in a future dialogue. Agencies are moderately interested although several ministries refer the issue to a colleague ministry. The best response comes from Ontario. |
| December 2014 | CAM's retiring and incoming Presidents meet with representatives of the Ontario Ministry of Government and Consumer Services to follow up on Premier Kathleen Wynne's election promise to get tough on rogue moving companies. |
| January 2015 | CAM's dedicated Year of the Reputable Mover transitions to an ongoing Reputable Mover Strategy . CAM's President again meets with Ministry of Government and Consumer Services representatives and establishes guidelines to enhance data-sharing between CAM and the Ontario Government. The Ministry advises that they hired a consultant, Prism Economics and Analysis (Prism), to develop a comprehensive profile of the household goods moving sector in Ontario. |

| February 2015 | CAM circulates Prism's survey to all mover members to help augment the consultant's survey pool. |
| August 2015 | CAM Chairman and President meet with representatives of the Ontario Ministry of Government and Consumer Services to discuss strategies to increase consumer awareness of rogue companies. The Ministry reports that they've increased their enforcement service that deals with consumer protection issues. |
| October 2015 | Toronto City Council considers a proposal to license movers in Toronto. |
| November 2015 | Angela Coke, Ontario's Deputy Minister of Government and Consumer Services, gives an opening keynote address at CAM's annual conference in Ottawa .The Deputy Minister shares the Ministry's plans for better protecting consumers in their household-goods move. |
| March 2016 | Rogue movers seem to be emerging in consumer Google searches for a reputable moving company at an alarming rate. |
| April 2016 | CAM updates its Choosing a Mover flyer to enhance its caution to consumers about the perils of hiring a rogue mover and to urge due diligence in their search for a trustworthy moving company. |
| September 2016 | A trend in moving company brand hijackings is escalating. Rogue movers are hijacking brands and web traffic of reputable companies as their own resulting in confusion and complaints by consumers. CAM is increasingly being contacted by media. CAM and CAM's Directors are becoming reliable sources of information for input into media stories involving consumers getting scammed by dishonest companies, as well as for input into consumer resources that are being developed. CAM's collaboration with Better Business Bureaus is increasing as well. |
| November 2016 | CAM Chairman testifies as an expert witness for the household goods moving industry in a small claims court case involving a notorious rogue mover operating under multiple aliases. |
| December 2016 | Consumer Protection BC issues a press release about a fine they levied against a notorious moving business for engaging in deceptive business practices. |
| January 2017 | CAM issues a press release: Canadian Association of Movers Warns Public about Brand Hijackings . CBC's Marketplace airs an exposé on rogue movers. A CAM Director is included in the program as a resource. |
| February 2017 | The Ontario Ministry of Government and Consumer Services releases Prism's Final Report: Ontario's Household Moving Industry, May 2015 report to the public. CAM obtains the requisite license to post the report on its website. CAM sends a submission on rogue movers to Ontario's Standing Committee on Social Policy for consideration in their review of Bill 59, Putting Consumers First Act, 2016 . |

Mise à jour des développements

Sur une base régulière, les consommateurs sont arnaqués, extorqués, fraudés, volés et trichés par des exploitants malhonnêtes se faisant passer pour des déménageurs légitimes. Les canadiens déménagent d'un océan à l'autre et les problèmes auxquels ils sont confrontés en raison de la présence de ces entreprises malhonnêtes peuvent par conséquent relever de plusieurs juridictions. Compte-tenu du fait que la plupart des législations sont provinciales, les consommateurs sont obligés de rechercher des règlements dans un dédale de juridictions.

Dans l'édition printanière 2015 de notre magazine, Le Déménageur Canadien, nous avons communiqué les actions en cours de l'ACD afin d'éradiquer ce fléau et de coordonner les efforts visant à assurer la protection des consommateurs. De temps à autre, nous avons également incorporé de nouvelles informations dans notre infolettre mensuelle, Le déménageur averti, afin de maintenir informés nos membres et les autres abonnés relativement aux plus récents développements ainsi qu'aux différentes histoires relatées par les médias.

Dans la présente édition, nous souhaitons introduire une nouvelle rubrique qui paraîtra dorénavant dans toutes nos éditions futures du magazine et par laquelle nous commenterons l'état de la situation relativement à ce fléau qui menace notre industrie et les consommateurs ainsi que les progrès rencontrés afin de pouvoir atténuer ses impacts dévastateurs. Voici une chronologie des événements jusqu'à ce jour.

L'ACD déclare l'année 2014 comme étant L'Année du déménageur reconnu et consacre l'année à promouvoir les services de qualité dispensés par l'industrie du déménagement de biens mobiliers et à atténuer les effets dévastateurs générés par les entreprises souterraines malhonnêtes se faisant passer pour des déménageurs professionnels auprès des consommateurs, de l'industrie du déménagement et des contribuables.

L'ACD a communiqué par écrit avec les différents ministères et agences gouvernementales afin de les inciter à développer une collaboration positive dans le but de protéger les consommateurs canadiens des préjudices qui leur sont causés par des entreprises de déménagement malhonnêtes. L'ACD a reçu peu de réponses positives ainsi que quelques recommandations afin de mettre en place des actions appropriées. Cependant, les ministères indiquaient généralement que ce problème relevait plutôt d'un autre ministère.

Mars 2014

L'ACD publie un communiqué de presse: L'Association Canadienne des Déménageurs déclare l'année 2014 comme étant L'année du déménageur reconnu.

Septembre 2014

L'ACD envoie une deuxième série de lettres aux différents ministères et agences des gouvernements provinciaux et fédéraux dans le but de leur transmettre un rapport de situation sur les efforts réalisés par l'ACD et demander qu'une personne ressource soit identifiée afin de pouvoir engager un dialogue futur. Les agences démontrent modérément de l'intérêt bien que certains ministères réfèrent cette problématique à un ministère associé. La réponse la plus encourageante nous provient de l'Ontario.

| Décembre 2014 | Les présidents sortants et entrants rencontrent des représentants du Ministère des Services gouvernementaux et des Services aux consommateurs de l'Ontario afin de faire le suivi approprié suite à l'élection de la Première Ministre Kathleen Wynne qui s'était engagée à adopter une position ferme à l'égard des compagnies de déménagement malhonnêtes. |
| Janvier 2015 | L'ACD effectue la transition de L'année du déménageur reconnu vers une stratégie de lutte contre les déménageurs malhonnêtes . Le président de l'ACD rencontre à nouveau les représentants du Ministère des Services gouvernementaux et des Services aux consommateurs de l'Ontario et établit avec eux les lignes directrices requises afin d'améliorer le partage de données entre l'ACD et le gouvernement de l'Ontario. Le ministère indique qu'ils ont embauché un consultant, Prism Economics and Analysis (Prism), afin de développer un profil exhaustif du secteur du déménagement des biens mobiliers en Ontario. |
| Février 2015 | L'ACD circule le sondage de Prism afin de permettre à ses membres de contribuer au développement du bassin de participants à ce sondage. |
| Août 2015 | Le président du conseil et le président de l'ACD rencontrent des représentants du Ministère des Services gouvernementaux et des Services aux consommateurs de l'Ontario afin de discuter des stratégies à adopter visant à améliorer les communications destinées aux consommateurs dans le but de les prémunir des dangers associés à ces entreprises malhonnêtes. Le ministère signale qu'ils ont développé leur service de contrôle de qui relèvent les problématiques liées à la protection du consommateur. |
| Octobre 2015 | Le Conseil de ville de Toronto considère une proposition afin de pouvoir émettre des permis de déménageurs dans la ville de Toronto. |
| Novembre 2015 | Angela Coke, sous-ministre du Ministère des Services gouvernementaux et des Services aux consommateurs de l'Ontario, prononce un discours d'ouverture lors de la conférence annuelle de l'ACD à Ottawa. La sous-ministre partage les plans du ministère établis dans le but de mieux protéger les consommateurs dans le cadre de leurs déménagements de biens mobiliers. |
| Mars 2016 | Les déménageurs malhonnêtes semblent émerger sur les pages de recherche de Google, et ce, à un rythme alarmant. |
| Avril 2016 | L'ACD met à jour sa brochure Le choix d'un déménageur afin de prévenir les consommateurs des dangers liés à l'embauche d'un déménageur malhonnête et d'insister sur l'importance d'effectuer les vérifications nécessaires au cours de leurs recherches pour trouver un déménageur professionnel de confiance. |
| Septembre 2016 | Une tendance à voir des marques de compagnies de déménagement réputées être piratées s'aggrave. Des déménageurs malhonnêtes piratent des marques de commerce de déménageurs réputés ainsi que le trafic internet qui leur est associé, semant ainsi la confusion et conduisant à des plaintes de la part des consommateurs. L'ACD est de plus en plus contactée par les médias. L'ACD et ses directeurs deviennent des sources d'information fiables afin de commenter les histoires rapportées par les médias relativement à des fraudes commises auprès des consommateurs par des entreprises malhonnêtes, ainsi qu'à contribuer activement au développement de ressources à l'intention des consommateurs. La collaboration de l'ACD avec les bureaux d'éthique commerciale se développe également. |

| Novembre 2016 | Le président du conseil de l'ACD témoigne à titre de témoin expert pour l'Industrie du déménagement des biens mobiliers devant la Cour des petites créances dans une cause impliquant un déménageur malhonnête qui opérait sous plusieurs identités. |
| Décembre 2016 | L'agence de protection du consommateur de C.-B. publie un communiqué de presse relativement à une amende qu'elle a imposée à une entreprise de déménagement reconnue en raison de pratiques commerciales inappropriées. |
| Janvier 2017 | L'ACD publie un communiqué de presse : L'Association Canadienne des Déménageurs prévient le public relativement au piratage de marques de commerce. L'émission Marketplace de CBC diffuse un reportage sur les déménageurs malhonnêtes. Un directeur de l'ACD participe à l'émission à titre de personne ressource. |
| Février 2017 | Le Ministère des Services gouvernementaux et des Services aux consommateurs de l'Ontario publie à l'intention du public le rapport final de Prism : L'Industrie du déménagement des biens mobiliers en Ontario, Mai 2015. L'ACD obtient les autorisations requises afin de publier le rapport sur son site Web. L'ACD transmet un document d'argumentation sur les déménageurs malhonnêtes au Comité permanent de la politique sociale de l'Ontario afin de participer à l'examen du Projet de loi 59, Loi de 2017 donnant la priorité aux consommateurs. |

Everyone a Winner at CAM's 2016 Annual Awards Dinner

Our Annual Awards Dinner is traditionally CAM's most popular event of the year. We always enjoy a great turnout, with colleagues from coast to coast attending to honour professional moving companies across the country and individuals who work for them. At a time when rogue movers are on the rise, CAM supports and rewards reputable movers who have established themselves as credible, reliable companies who adhere to a strict code of conduct. Awardees are all folks who have worked very hard to elevate the whole moving industry and its standards.

However, the Annual Awards Dinner on November 21, 2016 in Mississauga, ON turned out to be quite a special event. The attendance of 150 dinner guests surpassed the previous highest number by a 10 percent margin. The only limiting factor seemed to be the room size with every table filled and buzzing with conversation.

Another difference this year was the addition of two new awards to the roster. 2016 is the first year that new Agent of the Year and Independent Mover of the Year Awards were presented.

Altogether six awards were presented to honoured recipients at the dinner. CAM recognized the outstanding service by these moving companies and individuals who contributed to the growth and professionalism of the moving industry.

The Distinguished Service Award recognizes an individual who exemplifies CAM standards for quality. For his contributions during 51 years in the moving industry, the award was presented to Jim Calhoun, VP Operations, by Anne Martin, President of United Van Lines and Mayflower (Canada) and a CAM Director.

The Innovators Award recognizes innovations and significant breakthroughs in the moving industry. CAM Director and President of Meldrum the Mover Inc., Tom Filgiano, presented this award to Franco Collard, Déménagement Drummond Inc. (Drummondville) in part for his role in expanding the professional moving industry into the remote areas of Québec and Labrador.

The Industry Achievement Award recognizes an individual who demonstrates innovation, leadership and serves as an inspiration to others. This award was presented to Bob "Smitty" Smith, QHP Moving & Storage Ltd. (Edmonton) by Cam Carswell, CAM Vice-Chairman and President of Country Wide Moving (Saskatoon) for his extensive involvement in the moving industry and his "dedication, leadership, mentoring of others and upstanding ambassadorship of the industry."

The Public Service Award honours an individual or group who has performed a significant act of humanitarian achievement. Jay's Transportation Group (Saskatchewan & Alberta) received this award for 2016 for the company's considerable philanthropy and involvement in numerous and varied community and charitable endeavours. Milton Letkeman, General Manager of Jay's Moving Division accepted the award from Doug Kellough, President of Salmon's Transfer Ltd. (Richmond) and, at the time, a CAM Director.

The new Agent of the Year Award was established to recognize a Canadian van line agent who provides outstanding corporate citizenship and customer service excellence. Atlas Van Lines President and CAM Director Barry Schellenberg presented this award to David and Virginia Willms on behalf of AMJ Campbell (North Bay) saying "this Agent has been instrumental in helping us to refine our Atlas quality objectives and continues to be a mentor to our team by...ensuring that we continue to progress forward with quality and success of our entire organization.”

The new Independent Mover of the Year Award was similarly established to recognize an independent mover who demonstrates outstanding corporate citizenship and customer service excellence. Connie Shields and her daughter Tara Watson accepted the award on behalf of MIB Moving Inc. (Fort McMurray) from Ted LeLacheur, President of Western Moving & Storage (Edmonton) and, at the time, a CAM Director. Among other achievements, MIB played a significant role in removing contaminated appliances and their contents following the devastating 2016 Alberta forest fire.

Also presented at the dinner was the Move for Hunger Award that recognizes a moving company that has contributed the most food for the cause. This year, Armstrong Moving & Storage (Mississauga) was the honoured recipient. During their five years of Move for Hunger membership, they rescued 31,134 pounds of food and delivered it to their local food bank. Armstrong's President Rod Speers accepted the award from Move for Hunger's Program Director Alexandra Marcus Sales.

“The recipients are well-deserving of their awards and we are proud of each of them” said Paul Leader, now retired CAM President & CEO. “Every day we educate consumers on how to pick credible, professional movers. The winners of the CAM awards are excellent examples of this and an inspiration to others”.

Everyone had a great time and seemed reluctant to end the evening's camaraderie. A special thanks goes out to the many sponsors who helped to make the dinner such a terrific event.

Come on out to CAM's 2017 Annual Awards Dinner in Montreal and celebrate the 150th anniversary of Confederation, Montreal's 375th anniversary and the contributions of the very best among us in this industry.

2016 CAM Executive, Directors and Award Recipients

Tous sont ressortis gagnants du dîner annuel de remise des prix de l'ACD 2016

Notre dîner annuel de remise des prix est traditionnellement l'activité la plus populaire de l'année pour l'ACD. Nous y avons toujours connu beaucoup de succès grâce à la participation de collègues provenant d'un océan à l'autre afin de rendre hommage à des entreprises de déménagement professionnelles canadiennes ainsi qu'à des personnes travaillant au sein de celles-ci. Au moment où les déménageurs malhonnêtes pullulent, l'ACD supporte et récompense les déménageurs de bonne réputation s'étant imposés comme des entreprises crédibles et fiables qui adhèrent à un code de conduite très strict. Les récipiendaires sont tous des personnes qui ont travaillé avec acharnement pour contribuer à développer toute l'industrie du déménagement ainsi que ses normes.

Le dîner annuel de remise des prix qui s'est tenu le 21 novembre 2016 à Mississauga en Ontario s'est toutefois avéré un événement très spécial. La présence de 150 convives a surpassé la plus haute assistance à ce jour de 10%. Le seul facteur contraignant a semblé être la dimension de la salle alors que toutes les tables étaient bondées et bourdonnaient de conversations.

Une autre différence notée cette année fut l'ajout de deux nouveaux prix sur la liste habituelle. L'année 2016 est la première au cours de laquelle les prix de l'agent de l'année et du déménageur indépendant de l'année ont été présentés.

Au total, 6 prix furent présentés aux récipiendaires distingués lors de dîner. L'ACD a reconnu les services exceptionnels de ces entreprises de déménagement et de ces personnes ayant contribué à la croissance et au professionnalisme de l'industrie du déménagement.

Le Prix pour services exceptionnels reconnaît les mérites d'une personne qui prône les normes de qualité de l'ACD. En reconnaissance de sa contribution à l'industrie du déménagement pendant 51 ans, ce prix a été présenté à Jim Calhoun, vice-président des Opérations, par Anne Martin, présidente d'United Van Lines et Mayflower (Canada) ainsi qu'un directeur de l'ACD.

Le Prix de l'innovation reconnaît les innovations et les percées significatives réalisées dans l'industrie du déménagement. Le directeur de l'ACD et président de l'entreprise Meldrum the Mover Inc., Tom Filgiano, a présenté ce prix à Franco Collard, de Déménagement Drummond Inc. (Drummondville), en partie pour son rôle dans l'expansion de l'industrie du déménagement professionnel dans les régions éloignées du Québec et du Labrador.

Le Prix des réalisations dans l'industrie reconnaît les mérites d'une personne ayant fait preuve d'innovation et de leadership tout en servant de source d'inspiration pour les autres. Ce prix a été présenté à Bob "Smitty" Smith, de QHP Moving & Storage Ltd. (Edmonton), par Cam Carswell, vice-président de l'ACD et président de Country Wide Moving (Saskatoon), pour son implication exceptionnelle dans l'industrie du déménagement ainsi que "son dévouement, son leadership, son rôle de mentor auprès des autres et d'ambassadeur intègre de l'industrie".

Le Prix pour services sociaux rend hommage à une personne ou un groupe ayant réalisé un accomplissement humanitaire exceptionnel. L'entreprise Jay's Transportation Group (Saskatchewan & Alberta) s'est méritée ce prix en 2016 en raison de ses nombreuses activités philanthropiques et de son implication dans de nombreuses autres initiatives communautaires et charitables. Milton Letkeman, directeur général de la division Jay's Moving a accepté ce prix remis par Doug Kellough, président de Salmon's Transfer Ltd.

Doug Kellough (Salmon's Transfer Ltd), directeur de l'ACD et président du Comité pour la conférence, ainsi que Paul Leader, président de l'ACD (à droite), tous deux retirés de l'ACD en 2016.

Le nouveau Prix de l'agent de l'année a été créé afin de reconnaître l'agent d'une compagnie de transport canadienne qui a fait preuve d'un engagement social exceptionnel ainsi que d'excellence au niveau du service à la clientèle. Le président d'Atlas Van Lines et directeur de l'ACD, Barry Schellenberg, a présenté ce prix à David et Virginia Willms au nom d'AMJ Campbell (North Bay) en mentionnant que "cet agent a largement contribué à nous aider à améliorer nos objectifs de qualité chez Atlas et demeure un mentor pour notre équipe en s'assurant que nous poursuivons la progression de la qualité et du succès de toute notre organisation".

Le nouveau Prix du déménageur indépendant de l'année a également été créé afin de reconnaître une entreprise de déménagement indépendante qui a fait preuve d'un engagement social exceptionnel ainsi que d'excellence au niveau du service à la clientèle. Connie Shields et sa fille, Tara Watson, ont accepté le prix au nom de l'entreprise MIB Moving Inc. (Fort McMurray) des mains de Ted LeLacheur, président de Western Moving & Storage (Edmonton) et directeur de l'ACD. Parmi d'autres réalisations, MIB a joué un rôle significatif dans la disposition des appareils ménagers contaminés et leur contenu à la suite des feux de forêt dévastateurs de 2016 en Alberta.

Le prix de reconnaissance Move for Hunger qui fut également présenté lors du dîner souligne les efforts d'une entreprise de déménagement ayant contribué le plus à cette Cette année, la compagnie Armstrong Moving & Storage (Mississauga) fut le récipiendaire de ce prix. Au cours des 5 années où l'entreprise a été membre de Move for Hunger, elle a contribué à récupérer 31 134 livres de denrées alimentaires et les a livrées aux banques alimentaires locales. Le président d'Armstrong, Rod Speers a accepté le prix remis par la directrice de programme de Move for Hunger, Alexandra Marcus Sales.

"Tous les récipiendaires méritent pleinement leurs prix et nous sommes extrêmement fiers de chacun d'eux" a indiqué

Paul Leader, président et directeur général de l'ACD, maintenant retiré. "À chaque jour, nous éduquons les consommateurs sur la façon de sélectionner des déménageurs professionnels crédibles. Les récipiendaires des prix de l'ACD sont tous et toutes d'excellents exemples et représentent une inspiration pour les autres."

Tous les participants ont eu beaucoup de plaisir et semblaient déçus de voir cette soirée de camaraderie se terminer. Des remerciements particuliers doivent être exprimés à l'intention des nombreux commanditaires de la soirée qui ont contribué à faire de ce dîner annuel un événement exceptionnel.

Joignez-vous à nous lors du dîner annuel de remise des prix de l'ACD 2017 à Montréal et venez célébrer le 150^e anniversaire de la Confédération, le 375^e anniversaire de la ville de Montréal ainsi que les contributions de certains des meilleurs membres de notre industrie.

Change — Today's New Constant

Canadian Association of Movers' 22nd Annual Conference
Sunday, November 19, 2017 (5:00 pm) – Tuesday, November 21, 2017 (9:00 pm)
Hotel William Gray, 421 Rue St-Vincent, Vieux Montréal, Québec H2Y 3A6 Canada

THE PROGRAM

An exceptional array of world-class speakers will impart their insight and experiences to attendees at the Canadian Association of Movers' 2017 Annual Conference in Montréal, Québec.

Our theme this year is Change – Today's New Constant because, if there's one thing that you can count on, it's that things are going to change. From the complexity of the shifting political and economic climate, to the fast-paced technological advancements, to the regulating and deregulating of day-to-day business processes, our household goods moving industry faces the challenge of keeping up to-date with the demands of the marketplace.

Our 2017 conference program itself is changing this year and will stand apart from all others. We've extended the program to two full days to provide moving professionals with a greater opportunity to connect with experts at the top of their fields who can provide cutting-edge information that will inspire innovative thinking and provide tools to help build businesses.

CAM's partners – our supplier members and sponsors who endorse CAM and its objectives – are helping CAM to deliver this quality event to you. Excellent presenters, such as keynote speaker Professor Alan Shepard, President and Vice-Chancellor of Concordia University in Montréal, one of Canada's most innovative urban universities, will deliver their views on the changes in society and business that owners and operators have to navigate today. You'll enjoy an informal reception on Sunday evening where attendees can meet and mingle and a trade show where a variety of industry exhibitors will be available to show you their latest products and tell you about their newest services.

New this year, Monday evening will be free for you to explore all that multicultural and historic Old Montréal has to offer visitors. On Tuesday afternoon, you'll enjoy a special industry-related tour. The conference will close on Tuesday evening at CAM's very popular Chairman's Reception and Annual Awards Dinner where we honour distinguished members in the industry.

THE CITY

We encourage you to bring your spouse and family with you to Montréal – a captivating, charming, cosmopolitan city – where celebrations of the city's 375th anniversary and the 150th anniversary of Canadian Confederation will be in full force. Montréal is a world-class, modern and dynamic metropolis. Its European heritage shines though in the beautiful 18th-century buildings and cobblestone streets of Old Montréal. A few streets over, the city's dynamic downtown reveals its cutting-edge and creative side. Montréal lives in both French and English, but its multicultural population is really what shapes the cuisine and culture offered in the host of gourmet restaurants, cafés, bars, clubs, galleries, museums and boutiques.

THE HOTEL

With a stay at Hotel William Gray, you'll be centrally located in Montréal, steps from Palais de Justice and Montréal City Hall. This brand new 4.5-star hotel, built in 2016, is within close proximity of Champ de Mars and Bonsecours Market. Only 10 km (or 6 mi. direct) from the St. Hubert Airport (YHU) and 16 km (or 10 mi. direct) from the Pierre Elliott Trudeau Intl. Airport (YUL). You'll be at home in one of the 127 air-conditioned rooms featuring refrigerators, minibars, pillow-top beds with down comforters and Frette Italian sheets, 49-inch LCD televisions with cable programming and complimentary wireless Internet access. Amenities include concierge services, babysitting/childcare (surcharge) and gift shops/newsstands. Grab a bite to eat at the hotel's restaurant with bar, or at the bar/lounge, or stay in and take advantage of 24-hour room service. Cooked-to-order breakfasts are available daily for a fee. The hotel also includes a business center, limo/town car service and express check-out.

A special room rate of $180 per night is available for the "Canadian Association of Movers conference" until October 18, 2017.
